President's Daughter Becomes Bride

Luci And Pat Say 'I Do'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Under the Romanesque arches of a vast shrine, a full-throated choir fell silent today, an age-old question was put by a priest, and the words "I do" came from the lips of Luci Baines Johnson and Patrick John Nugent.

Thus the daughter of the 36th President became the bride of a college boy reared in a modest, orange bungalow in Waukegan, Ill.

She was the latest in a roster of eight girls married while their fathers served as chief executive of the nation.

The scene could best be described as monumental.

The National Shrine of the Immaculate Conception, world's seventh largest church, gleamed with light filtered through many-colored panes and falling on great mosaics.

Cascades of greenery and white roses marked the pews for the select congregation of 700, composed of friends great and humble of the principals.

The three clergymen of the concelebrated Mass, the new-laws and indeed the tall President himself seemed tiny compared to the high altar, its four polished columns of pink stone rising to its marble canopy.

Moments of high interest succeeded each other rapidly from the time the President, with Luci on his arm, began the 352-foot journey down the aisle. The design of her white gown had until today been a state secret. He wore a cutaway, a garb he had previously disdained to don even for his inauguration.

At the altar rail the President gave his 19-year-old daughter to the keeping of the tall blond bridegroom of 23, who had approached from the right.

Then the President joined the First Lady, who wore yellow, in a front pew on the left side of the aisle, as one looks at the altar. The bridegroom's mother, in aquamarine, and other members of the Nugent family, were in the front pew right.

The bridal couple proceeded to a prie dieu, or satin-covered kneeling bench, within the sanctuary. To their sides and a little to the rear, stood and knelt maid of honor Lynda Bird Johnson and the best man's stand-in, Gerard P. Nugent Sr., father of the bridegroom and of Marine Lt. Gerard P. Nugent Jr., absent on Viet Nam duty. Lynda Bird's pink illusion veil swept to the floor behind her.

Five times the bridal couple left their kneeling bench and repaired to the altar — to say the wedding vows, to present gifts in the form of bread and wine at the offertory, to receive Holy Communion, and twice to receive nuptial blessings from white-robed Archbishop Patrick A. O'Boyle of Washington.

The Rev. John A. Kuzinskas of Chicago, friend of the bridegroom, administered the vows and called "upon all of you here present to be witnesses of this holy union which I have now blessed."

The Gospel according to St. Matthew, wherein the Savior declared husband and wife are "no longer two but one flesh," was proclaimed by the Rev. William J. Kaifer, faculty adviser to Luci when she was a student nurse at Georgetown University.

From a high lectern, Rep. Hale Boggs, a Knight of Columbus from New Orleans, read from St. Paul's Epistle to the Ephesians, admonishing that "each one of you should love his wife just as he loves himself; and the wife should reverence her husband."

When the bridal couple and the President and the wedding guests left the church, the 56-bell carillon atop the 329-foot campanile pealed out anew, as it had for an hour before the ceremony.

Girl Killed In Accident At Midland

Hazel Burton Runs Into Path Of Car, Dies At Hospital

Services were being arranged today for a 4-year-old Midland girl who was injured fatally when struck by an auto on Midland Ave. near her home Friday night.

Hazel Diana Lynn Burton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph W. Burton of 360 Midland Ave., died at 2:05 a.m. at Children's Hospital, Pittsburgh, from head injuries.

Midland police said the child darted onto the street from between two parked autos into the path of a car operated by Robert M. Winkle, 40, of 800 Kaye St., Monaca.

The child was knocked down by the impact, but the car did not pass over her, witnesses said. The accident occurred between 3rd and 4th St. at 6:25.

The woman was driving west at a moderate speed, and halted immediately. With her in the car were Elva Maney of Freedom R.D. 1, Mary Campbell of Beaver and Alice Harper of Monaca.

The injured youngster was rushed by ambulance to City Hospital, then transferred to the Pittsburgh hospital. An autopsy was slated late this morning at Pittsburgh.

A daughter of Joseph and Helen Burton, the girl was born at Rochester Feb. 3, 1962. She was a member of the St. Paul's African Methodist Church in Midland.

In addition to her parents, she is survived by a brother, Michael Kevin Burton, and a sister, Jo Bette Burton, both at home.

The Leavell Funeral Home at Midland is in charge of arrangements.

The death was the first fatality in Midland since May 2, 1965, when Bruno Strazaboschi was injured fatally as his car struck a pole at Midland Ave. and 13th St.

Wirtz Faces Quiz Again In Air Strike

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Labor W. Willard Wirtz appears before an unusual Saturday session of the House Commerce Committee to again face questioning about legislation aimed at halting the month-old airline strike.

The bill, passed by the Senate Thursday, would order striking mechanics back to work on five airlines for 30 days and provide machinery for the President to postpone any strike resumption for 150 more days.

Wirtz told the House Commerce Committee Friday there is little chance for meaningful negotiations between the airlines and the AFL-CIO International Association of Machinists while Congress is considering action.

Despite the unusual Saturday session, the bill is not being given rush treatment. If the committee finishes taking testimony from Wirtz today, it will devote Monday to interrogating P.L. (Roy) Siemiller, union president. William J. Curtin, chairman of the five carriers' negotiating committee, is next on the committee list.

Lands In Viet Nam

Famed Brigade Of U.S. Troops Goes Into Battle

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — A brigade of the U.S. 4th Infantry Division, which won fame in two world wars, landed in South Viet Nam today and was immediately airlifted to the central highlands, one of this country's major battle-grounds.

The arrival raised U.S. troop strength in Viet Nam to about 290,000 men and highlighted a day in which ground fighting dwindled to sporadic and light actions.

In the air, however, a U.S. spokesman said heavy strikes continued against North Viet Nam — where Red gunners fired 15 Soviet-built surface-to-air missiles at raiding American warplanes Friday.

One of the most successful raids was a sweep at a 40-truck convoy heading south under cover of darkness. Strafing and bombing attacks set 25 of the trucks aflame in strikes Friday night and early today.

The military spokesman said the only fighting reported today was in the highlands west of Pleiku and about five miles from the Cambodian frontier — an area where some 10,000 U.S. soldiers are hunting the Viet Cong. The light clash today came when a reconnaissance patrol of the U.S. 1st Cavalry, airborne, Division hit what was apparently a covering force of North Vietnamese regulars.

Details of the action were scant, the spokesman said, but the U.S. forces were pressing on into the area.

The 4th (Ivy) Division, based at Ft. Lewis, Wash., is commanded by Maj. Gen. A. S. Collins Jr. It is best known for its D-Day landing on Utah Beach in France in World War II. It also claims to be the first allied unit

Inflationary Trend Cited In Remarks

Couples Signing Of NASA Funds Bill With His Warning

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson, acting after a wave of steel price boosts he did not challenge, has warned that such increases could force a cutback in government spending on projects such as the space program.

The President coupled the signing Friday of a bill authorizing $5 billion for the National Aeronautics and Space Administration with this warning to business and union leaders:

"If particular segments of our economy continue to raise their prices and increase the cost of this and other programs, it will be necessary for the government to further reduce its expenditures, particularly in those areas where prices are rising in an inflationary way."

Although Johnson made no direct reference to this week's price increases in the steel industry, it was clear that his statement was prompted by that move and last week's rejection by the AFL-CIO International Association of Machinists of an airlines contract calling for increases reported to be between 6 and 7 per cent. Acceptance of the contract would have ended the month-old walkout against five major airlines.

The White House has labeled the steel price hikes inflationary, but the industry called the $2 to $3 a ton boosts inconsequential and modest.

In his statement, Johnson said the maintenance of the space program depends on the cooperation of "major business leaders and union leaders."

"If we are to continue our space effort and continue to make the magnificent progress represented by our past achievements," the chief executive said, "we can do so only if business and labor leaders will make their contribution by responsible pricing and bargaining decisions."

Despite the President's strong words, the administration apparently does not intend any dramatic moves to counter the price hikes.

The boosts, initiated by Inland Steel Co. Tuesday, affect sheet and strip steel, which comprise about 30 per cent of the industry's output. Some estimate the industry boosts will increase the cost to the auto industry — main user of sheet and strip steel — by about $1.50 per car.

The new prices go into effect Wednesday.

Fire Razes Building At Reservoir Here

A cement block storage building at the city reservoir on Thompson Ave. was destroyed by fire Friday at 5:38 p. m.

The one-story building contained tools, equipment and supplies of the water department. Firemen, who battled the blaze for an hour and 56 minutes, said it apparently was started by children.

Firemen laid 800 feet of 2½-inch hose and 300 feet of 1½-inch hose. Kerosene inside the building exploded and tanks of propane gas erupted, hindering firemen in their work. The kerosene also fed the flames.

No estimate has been made of the damage.

Gov. Wallace Unshaken By Threat Rumor

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP) — "There've been things like this before, the governor's not worried," is one aide's reaction to still unverified reports that six youths are on their way to Alabama bent on killing Gov. George C. Wallace.

The governor's press secretary, Jack House, said Friday night that Wallace had changed no plans for public appearances this weekend as a result of the reported threat.

Wallace remained silent on the rumor.

However, two more state troopers were assigned to the governor's usual three-man security staff, and highway patrol cars were alerted to be on the lookout for cars with six occupants.

The FBI notified state police Thursday night that six unidentified youths had reportedly left Washington, D.C. for Montgomery in a car bearing an Alabama license tag.

An FBI spokesman said the bureau had been tipped regarding the threat by a Washington television station, which it later declined to identify.

The FBI source said an employee of the station was told by an anonymous telephone caller: "I will not repeat this, so listen carefully. Six youths have just left Washington 20 minutes ago to kill Gov. Wallace. This is not a prank. I know what I'm talking about. I shine shoes with these boys."

Wallace's press aide said there have been threats on the governor's life before "during his travels mostly."

'Runs Into Million Of Dollars' State Agencies In W. Va. Probed In 'Price-Fixing'

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (AP) — A large-scale investigation by the attorney general's office is reported under way today into alleged price-fixing on materials bought by state agencies running into the millions of dollars.

The Charleston Gazette said today Atty. Gen. C. Donald Robertson is moving swiftly in the case, which Robertson said is expected to uncover damages that "will be staggering."

The newspaper said Robertson declined to list the companies involved in the alleged scheme, but that they are well known names in business.

At least some of the cases apparently involve purchases by the State Road Commission from some companies.

Robertson has a team of three investigators on the case, surveying state agency purchasing records dating back to 1956, the story said.

The newspaper also quoted Robertson as saying in a letter to department heads:

"The attorney general's office is conducting a discreet investigation into sales which have been made to the state by sellers who have fixed prices contrary to state law and the federal anti-trust acts."

"In order that the state of West Virginia may determine the extent of such violations and recover for the state the losses which it has suffered, it is necessary for us to examine records relevant to such illegal practices."

Robertson has assigned two deputies to the case and has brought in an authority on anti-trust law, Lee A. Freeman of Chicago, to help. Freeman is a special assistant to the states of Illinois, Indiana, Wisconsin, Or-

Nixon Warns War Can Be Lost At Home

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — Former Vice President Richard M. Nixon said today the war "will not be lost in Viet Nam, but it could be lost at home."

He spoke to newsmen after a military briefing.

"What is required," he added, "is our continued determination here and the backing of our forces by the home front."

Nixon had denounced American critics of U.S. policy in Viet Nam at a news conference after his arrival Friday. He charged that this criticism was prolonging the war by encouraging the enemy "and preventing the very negotiations the critics say they want."

The former Republican presidential candidate received a two-hour briefing on the military situation this afternoon from Gen. William C. Westmoreland, commander of U.S. forces in Viet Nam.

Later, Nixon said that short of successful diplomatic measures, "which are unexpected at this point, I cannot see an early end to the war. When you see it in historical perspective, we've made steady progress, and eventual success is assured."

This is Nixon's fifth visit to Viet Nam since 1953. He said he believed the commitment of American ground troops plus the decision to bomb North Viet Nam had turned the war from one of impending defeat for the allies to "a situation now where the initiative is definitely on our side."

Earlier in the day Nixon received reports from U.S. Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge, his running mate in the 1960 presidential election, and other American officials on South Viet Nam's political and economic outlook.

Civic Group Says Boy Deserves Hero Award

HAMILTON, Ohio (AP) — Members of the Civic Association at nearby New Miami think Danny Lee Saylor, 9, should receive a Carnegie Foundation award for saving a girl's life.

Shelia Reeder, 8, New Miami, was badly cut last week when her bicycle plunged into a ravine. Danny scrambled down a steep embankment carried her to his bike and rode for help. Attendants at Fort Hamilton Hospital say Shelia probably would have bled to death except for Danny's quick action.

At Hospitals, Nursing Homes

VanDyne Outlines Details Of Inspection, Evacuation

Alfred VanDyne, chief of the East Liverpool fire department, outlined procedures used in inspections and evacuation programs in hospitals and nursing homes during the meeting of the Lions Club Friday at the Travelers Hotel.

Regular hospital inspections are conducted twice each year, he said, along with unscheduled inspections at random intervals. He emphasized the importance of keeping stairwells clear of rubbish and of maintaining exit lights in working order.

GOOD cooperation is received from local hospitals and nursing homes, although a rapid personnel changeover in nursing homes presents a problem in keeping those responsible informed on the matters of inspections, evacuation methods and the use of fire extinguishers, VanDyne continued.

Large buildings such as schools nearby the nursing home facilities have been designated as emergency facilities in case evacuation becomes necessary, VanDyne explained. Regular inspections are held three times each year in public schools, along with monthly fire drills, he noted. All occupants, including teachers and crippled children, are evacuated from the buildings to provide realistic practice, the chief commented.

VanDyne outlined the structure of the department, consisting of 27 firemen, three assistant chiefs and one chief. The men work on a rotating schedule, on duty for 24 hours and then off 48 hours, he explained.

HE SUMMARIZED the requirements for becoming a fireman and detailed information relative to the pay structure, vacation plan and schooling available.

With the exception of a 1,000-gallon pumper acquired three years ago, VanDyne said, the equipment of the department is 17 to 26 years old. In spite of the age of the equipment, it is maintained in good condition and ready for operation at all times by department personnel, he stressed.

Van Dyne was introduced by Kenneth Eardley, program chairman.

Ed Shingler presided.

3 Will Share AEC $50,000 Fermi Award

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Atomic Energy Commission's $50,000 Fermi Award will be shared by a European woman scientist and two West German university professors who laid the groundwork for the splitting of the atom.

The awards, announced Friday, go to Prof. Otto Hahn, 87, a Nobel Prize winner living in Goettingen, West Germany; Prof. Fritz Strassmann, 64, of Mainz, West Germany, and Prof. Lise Meitner, 87, a native of Vienna now living in England. She is the first woman to receive the honor.

Each will be given a one-third share of the $50,000 cash prize, a gold medal and citation.

The award was created in 1954 to honor the late Dr. Enrico Fermi under whose direction a group of scientists achieved the first nuclear chain reaction in Chicago in 1942.

Hahn and Strassmann published results of experiments in 1939 showing that the nucleus of a uranium atom can be split. About the same time, Prof. Meitner was reporting that a uranium nucleus was sometimes split by absorption of a neutron, one of the basic principles in the chain reaction theory.

Ex-Officer Arraigned

On Tax Evasion Count

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Clarence C. Cooper, an ex - Pittsburgh police officer, was arraigned in Federal District Court Friday on charges of income tax evasion.

Cooper, who resigned from the force last September after 28 years of service, pleaded innocent before Judge Louis Rosenberg.

The government claims Cooper failed to list all his income and its source from 1959 through 1963.

Cooper's bond was continued so he could return to his job in Fort Lauderdale, Fla.

Three resignations have been accepted and two new teachers hired by the Stanton Local Board of Education.

Resigning were Carol Cottrell, who has accepted a position in the Wooster school system; Frank Sisti, who has accepted a position in the Alliance schools; and Marlene McCullough, who is moving from the area.

Hired were Christine Mackov, high school art, and Eileen Norris, elementary.

All non-certified school personnel, including custodians, bus drivers, cafeteria employees, nurse, secretaries and bus mechanic, were employed with the exception of Clarence Martin, custodian at the Edison School, who is retiring. Wilbur DeGarmo, was employed as custodian of the Edison School.

The contract for supplying milk to all schools in the Stanton District was awarded to the Golden Star Dairy.

The bread and baked goods contract was awarded to Nickels Bakery.

All first - grade students in the Hammondsville - Irondale area will attend the Irondale school again this year.

Police Investigate

Minor Mishap Here

One minor traffic accident was investigated Friday by city police.

The mishap, at 6:45 p.m., occurred at the intersection of E. 5th St. and Broadway and involved cars operated by Juanita Bartlett, 21, of 257 Pennsylvania Ave. and Brent English, 19, of Radio Heights.

The woman was driving a convertible owned by James Allison of Minerva St. She told Lt. R. B. Pyle she had halted for a traffic signal at the intersection. Deciding she was too far into the intersection, she started backing and hit the English car which was behind her.

Ten of the last 11 Florida Derby winners have run in the Kentucky Derby. Eight have finished in the money.

Ohio Traffic Mishaps Take 4 More Lives

One-car accidents accounted for four fatalities—two in a single mishap—in the early hours of the weekend Friday night and Saturday.

The first weekend victims were:

Bruce C. Edwards, 38, and Rhex A. Edwards, 48, both of (1418 W. Cleveland Rd.) Huron.

Steve Davies, 19, of (1900 Glen Eagle) Dayton.

Dale Edward Hoffman, 18, of Gibsonburg, Sandusky County.

Bruce and Rhex Edwards were dead on arrival at a Portsmouth hospital early Saturday after their car ran off U.S. 23 and literally wrapped around a tree three-tenths of a mile north of Lucasville in Scioto County. The highway patrol said it took workers 25 minutes to free the victims out of the wreckage.

Davies died just before midnight Friday when his sports car went out of control and slammed into a utility pole in the 300 block of North Smithville Road in Dayton. He was thrown from the car. A passenger, 18-year-old James Mason of Xenia, was listed in critical condition at Miami Valley Hospital.

Hoffman was killed early Saturday when the car in which he was a passenger left Ohio 600 one mile west of Gibsonburg and overturned in a ditch. Hoffman was thrown out along with two other persons in the car. Urban Haslinger Jr., 18, of Gibsonburg, the driver, and Dennis Fork, 18, of Gibsonburg, another passenger. Haslinger and Fork were hospitalized.

More Demands Made To Boost Welfare Benefits

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Demands to the state for more welfare payments were made again Friday, this time for $6 to $8 million to be used to buy clothing for children.

The Ohio Steering Committee for Adequate Welfare presented its latest demand to assistant director of the State Welfare Department, Robert Canary.

Bernard Wohl, a director of Southside Settlement House in Columbus, stressed the urgency of the request.

Wohl said, "If something isn't done soon, the lid's going to blow off."

He referred to welfare recipients in the state as "gentle," but added, "they're tired of the Salvation Army, and they are tired of Goodwill Industries."

Canary told the 16 OSCAW members at the meeting that he would pass along the request to Welfare Director Denver White.

The group sponsored a march from Cleveland to Columbus in June, and held a rally at the Statehouse here to dramatize its plea for higher welfare payments.

The issue Friday was winter clothing for children. If the county wants, it can now provide what Canary termed "a nominal amount" of $5 per child. The state has no responsibility to provide a clothing subsidy, but will reimburse the costs if it chooses to pay the $5, Canary said.

You can drop frankfurters into boiling water, cover and let stand in a warm place for 10 minutes, then drain and serve. Because franks are already cooked, they need only to be heated.

Expected Monday

Full Report May Clarify Texas Sniper's Anguish

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP)—A full autopsy report expected Monday may further clarify the anguish which drove sniper Charles Joseph Whitman to kill 13 persons and wound 31 more from his perch in the University of Texas tower.

The report is one the blond, former Marine himself requested in a note found after his death at the hands of police.

"I wish an autopsy to be performed on me," he wrote, "to see if there's any mental disorder."

The report may detail the nature of a pecan-sized benign tumor found at the stem of Whitman's brain that Dr. Coleman deChenar of Austin said "could not have had any influence on his psychic behavior."

The autopsy is also expected to show whether Whitman was under the influence of pep pills or other drugs when he began his 80-minute reign of terror.

Discussion about the sniper and speculation on his motives continued even in the shadow of the tower where the midday drama took place. Notes left behind were revealing.

"I am prepared to die," one of them read.

"I've decided to kill Kathy. I love her very much," said another.

"I intend to kill my wife after I pick her up from work. I don't want her to have to face the embarrassment that my actions will surely cause her."

After ending his mother's life, Whitman wrote:

"To whom it may concern—I have just killed my mother. If there's a heaven she is going there. If there's not a heaven, she is out of her pain and misery."

There was no explanation, however of why he spared the lives of two people who he encountered after shooting a tower attendant.

Inexplicable, Whitman smiled and said, "Hi, how are you?" to Don Walden, 22, of San Antonio and Cheryl Botts, 18, of Rockdale, who apparently came on him as he pushed the body of Edna Townsley behind a couch. The couple did not see the body.

Whitman and his mother were buried in West Palm Beach, Fla., Friday after a funeral Mass attended by his brothers John, 17, and Pat, 21, and their father, Charles.

Insurance Firms Ask 9% Hike On Liability Rates

CHARLESTON (AP) — West Virginia automobile insurance raise rates on liability insurance policies, this time by up to 9.2 per cent.

State Insurance Commissioner Frank R. Montgomery has scheduled two public hearings for later this month on the requests, which were made public Friday.

In recent years the insurance companies have said they have had to increase rates to keep up with increased costs.

Montgomery said Friday that Nationwide Mutual Insurance Co. is asking for an increase of 9.2 per cent on private passenger bodily injury and property damage coverage.

The hearing Aug. 18 will also consider a Nationwide request for an increase of 6.6 per cent on medical payments and family compensation premiums.

Both requests ask for the increases to go into effect Sept. 1.

The National Bureau of Casualty Underwriters, representing 77 companies, will have a hearing Aug. 26 on its request for increases of 22.3 per cent on bodily injury and property damage for private passenger cars; 13.4 per cent for similar coverage on commercial cars, and eight per cent on garage risks.

Ohio May Set Record Traffic Deaths In '66

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio could be on its way to a record high number of traffic deaths this year, judging from first-half statistics released by the Department of Highway Safety.

The department said 1,112 persons died in Ohio traffic in the first six months, the highest January-June total in state history. Ohio's worst traffic death year was 1937, when 2,616 deaths were recorded.

Another Sign Of The Times?

The Weirton Daily Times, which keeps its finger on the pulse of happenings in Hancock County, again was critical this week of the actions of Commissioners James Finley and William Graham.

In an editorial headed "Goodbye, Jail Fund," The Times took the two to task for "exercising poor judgment and poor timing on granting more funds to county departments Tuesday."

The editorial says in part . . .
"It didn't take James Finley and William Graham long to raid the New Jail Fund set up in their 1966-67 budget at $159,000.

"Commissioner Jack Evans tried a year ago to have the State Legislature pass a local measure which would set up a New Jail Fund that would mean exactly that. The fund would have to be used for that one purpose and no other. It could be built up year after year until there was enough for a new jail building.

"We have a state senator and two delegates from Hancock County in the State Legislature and it wouldn't have been too much bother for them to sponsor such local legislation if they were requested to do so.

"Mr. Evans made an attempt at such legislation, but his colleagues weren't too impressed.

"Consequently, they have $159,000 in the 1966-67 budget designated simply as a New Jail Fund. Instead of going up from last year, it went down about $7,000.

"Such a large amount can't be carried in a public tax budget without specific authorization of the State Tax Commissioner. Since the fund is not restricted by a legislative decree, the county commissioners can raid it anytime they feel like.

"The state tax commissioner told The Daily Times recently that the county commissioners would have to do something with the New Jail Fund this term, either build the jail or get a State Legislative Act to protect the fund.

"What happened Tuesday night was gross irresponsibility upon the part of Mr. Finley and Mr. Graham.

"They increased Assessor Anthony Pirraglia's budget by $8,600 for 1966-67 which is all right, because that was the only office they ignored earlier in the year when they were setting up their all-time record-smashing budget. They

(Mr. Finley and Mr. Graham) were peeved at Mr. Pirraglia at that time over the Waterford Race Track assessments so they just lowered the boom on his appropriation for the 1966-67 fiscal year. On Tuesday, however, these two commissioners had a change of heart and gave Mr. Pirraglia's office a boost.

"The two commissioners then went on to give Sheriff Joe Rodak a department increase of $7,500 to do with as he sees fit. This was on top of the $20,000 blank check they handed him earlier in the year when the budget was being set up.

"The sheriff now has 14 deputies, which is one of the largest deputy staffs in all of West Virginia.

"Racketeering and gambling go on just as before and The Strip is active just as ever, except for the Paddock Club which was knocked out by state troopers.

"And where did Mr. Finley and Mr. Graham find the $7,500 and the $10,000 additional. It's no mystery. They just eased into the New Jail Fund and there was all they needed.

"Instead of slashing the budget and exercising economies, these two commissioners have been going on a chronic spending ramp age which has the taxpayers of the county groggy. . . ."

The Hay Fever

"A catarrhal affection of the mucous membranes of eyes, nose and respiratory tract, often with fever and asthma, caused chiefly by inhaled pollen of various plants."

That's how Webster's Dictionary describes a pesky affliction which troubles many at this time of the year. Condensed into two forceful words it means—hay fever.

All of which leads to an important phase of the city's appeal to clear empty lots and sidewalks of grass and weeds that may have been overlooked.

With another season at hand, hay fever sufferers could not help but be 100 per cent in favor of the cleanup. In their mind, the situation is not something to be sneezed at!

Pinching Where It Hurts

The Department of Defense has raised the September draft call from 31,300 to 37,300 and will ask for 46,200 in October.

That will be the highest figure reached since the Korean War, which wore down the tolerance of the American people for a grinding Asiatic war of attrition.

There was belated recognition during the Korean killing that the United States was pitting its troops against an enemy, Red China, which used manpower the way U.S. troops used ammunition—as if the supply would never be exhausted.

Red Chinese generals could afford to be profligate with their "volunteers." There were millions more where the last ones came from—the teeming peasant population of a country of 800 million people—young men who welcomed a chance to be fed and clothed and given medical care.

To the Chinese and to Asiatics in general, life is so cheap because malnutrition and disease take a heavy toll under the best of circumstances that battlefield losses seem relatively light.

The United States is encountering this again in Viet Nam. Human life is cheap. There is no valid comparison between the heavy numerical losses of the enemy and what always are referred to as "relatively light" losses by the United States.

Every U.S. casualty is a heavy blow.

Army enlistments, explains the Pentagon, are falling off, making it necessary to raise draft calls. Few Americans want to be sent to Viet Nam.

There is even less crusading spirit about service in that desolate outpost of the garrison state the United States has turned into than there was about Korea, before the United States finally was able to call off a war of attrition it no longer was willing to support.

Asiatics are sure the United States will tire of its losses in Viet Nam eventually. Ever-heavier draft calls will hasten the day.

Want To Feel Better?

The next time you are beginning to feel useless, stop for a minute and ponder the plight of the poor poison ivy plant.

Here is a living thing that is even more unpopular than man's perennial bitter enemy, crab grass.

Poison ivy is despised by both young and old and attacked vigorously whenever it pokes its three leaves up in lawns or parks.

Mothers yank their children from its presence, depriving it of the joyful noise of young at play.

It has no ornamental value, such as beloved climbing English ivy.

It is a common spoiler of picnics and fishing parties.

Discouraged and bitter, the only place for poor poison ivy to escape the wrath of humans is some secluded, uninhabited spot deep in a forest or some other out-of-the-way place.

Now what does this have to do with your own uselessness?

Just this. Despite its low human popularity rating, some 60 species of birds feed on the berry from the poison ivy plant, providing it a role of utility.

Now, don't you feel better already?

Belt And Suspenders

Remember the skeptic who wore belt and suspenders?

He wasn't so silly.

The way things are going, all of us should be giving thought to fail-safe devices.

Consider the people who have been stranded by a decision of airline mechanics on five trunk airlines to drag out a strike.

Thousands of them are acting as if they never heard of trains, ships, buses, autos. Millions of Americans have forgotten what it's like to put one foot in front of the other. It's called walking. They never tried it.

Autoists are helpless if a tire goes flat.

Women would not know how to do a washing if the automatic washing machine had an automatic seizure.

There are Americans who couldn't prepare a meal if something happened to frozen food.

If the air conditioner went blotto, they would be confronted with a stern challenge to survival. If the furnace failed, they wouldn't have fuel for the fireplace—if they had a fireplace.

An electric power failure throws them into panic; they never owned a candle and can't remember where they hid the flashlight.

Geniuses who design machinery have done their bit by making electric water pumps that can't be operated by hand.

It all began when designers took auxiliary cranks from motorists.

The whole idea for years has been to reduce mortals to a state of dependence on things over which they had no control.

They can't even ignite the charcoal for a cook-out without a can of igniting fuel.

It is unthinkable that they could start a fire in the woods without dry newspapers and a box of matches.

Civilization has reduced them to a parasitical existence. If anything happens to the things they rely on, they are helpless.

Self-reliance is gone and forgotten.

Any willful minority that feels like it can corner them and make them whimper for mercy.

An individual can paralyze them into impotency by threatening them with a gun, which may or may not be real, may or may not be loaded.

That fellow who used to wear both belt and suspenders, so if one failed he wouldn't be hobbled with his pants at half staff, was smarter than the people who poked fun at him.

This nation's pants are flying at half staff.

This 'n That

The first use by the American Army of motor vehicles in combat was in May 1916 when Gen. George S. Patton, then a cavalry lieutenant, used three touring cars to rout a party of Pancho Villa's guerrillas from their stronghold on the Mexican border.

Since a woman's skull is usually smaller than a man's, it usually holds a smaller brain. Her brain, however, is quite as big as a man's in proportion to the size of the body—that is to say, it is not in any sense inferior to a man's brain.

The U. S. Bureau of the Census is one of the oldest bureaus of the U. S. Department of Commerce, having existed since 1790. It is also the greatest fact-finding and figure-counting body in the world.

New Strategy In Cold War

By Raymond Moley

The critics of President Johnson's policy toward Viet Nam fail to realize that a new pattern of strategy toward the Communist world has emerged since the late 1940s and the early 1950s. Some of these changes have come of necessity by unforeseen developments, some have been forced upon us by deliberate planning in Soviet Russia and others by technological developments on both sides.

When Dwight Eisenhower and John Foster Dulles took over the direction of foreign and military policy in 1953 our nuclear capability was regarded as a deterrent. Within the decade there emerged a nuclear stalemate. Our strategists as well as those in the Kremlin recognized that a nuclear war would end in mutual devastation. Neither nation can contemplate that.

The Soviet leaders realize that such a catastrophe would not only leave what remained of Russia isolated in a crippled world, but would leave it naked to invasion from China. The ideological differences between Moscow and Peking emphasize that dread possibility.

SO A RELUCTANT and uneasy policy of co-existence emerged during the years of Khrushchev. The early dream of world revolution dimmed, and the Soviet strategists sought advantage by other means.

In the 1950s it became clear that Communist parties in a recovering Western Europe could not succeed. Thus attention was directed to spreading the Marxist gospels in the newly emerging nations in Africa and in Asia and Latin America.

On the military side, for a time, long-range missiles offered the Soviets the means of building weapons for offense and defense. But the "missile gap" if there ever was one — was filled by our own developments.

The Soviet shorter range missiles still could threaten and slowly make useless the ring of air bases with which the United States had surrounded Russia but the Polaris missiles mounted on nuclear-propelled submarines provided a substitute threat, for use if needed.

Meanwhile, the Soviet Union came to realize that nothing could be gained by a land war in Europe. The devastation of Western Europe would not only bring the United States into the conflict, but leave the still only partially industrialized Russia isolated — if they won — without intercourse with industrial nations which would provide essential products. Our determination to defend Berlin had credibility even in the Kremlin.

THE GREAT NEED for internal industrial development in Russia could only be met by trading with countries that had something to sell—with Europe and Japan.

The recovery of those countries that are now so busily engaged in dealing with the Soviets was achieved largely because of financial help from the U. S. government, private American investments and the export of our know-how. That is a truly ironical turn of events.

In 1950 it was firmly believed in the Kremlin and by its servile economists that before long the United States would be shaken by another depression and that this would bring the whole capitalist world to the downfall predicted by Marx. In that year I was told by a Russian diplomat in London that this was the end they envisioned. Their dream faded as our economy gained prodigiously.

Our Gross National Product — an inaccurate but substantial measure of growth — was $284.6 billion in 1950. It was more than twice that in 1965. So, instead of hoping to inherit the world from the capitalists, the Kremlin decided to join them.

The cold war continued with Soviet efforts to foment trouble in many places that might attract the intervention of the United States and other Western countries. When such troubles arose, the Soviets provided new fuel in the form of military equipment, just as now in Viet Nam.

BEYOND ALL THIS, the Soviet Union is seeking a breakthrough on the seas of the world. Its navy is already second only to ours, and its merchant fleet has grown in 10 years from 1,000 ships aggregating 2.3 million gross tons to 1,700 ships aggregating 7 million tons. Moreover, in May the Soviet Union had 581 under construction aggregation 5.9 million tons. The U. S. active merchant fleet is something less than 900 vessels, and in May we had under construction 37 dry cargo ships, one tanker and four ferry-boats.

Thus, the coming challenge will be over sea power. Just as Germany in the years before World War I challenged the British on the seas, so Soviet Russia is challenging us today. This is the long-range evolution of the cold war which it will be wise for Americans to watch.

Through The Years

From The Review Files

THIRTY YEARS AGO — J. P. Finley of Chester and Donald Mills of Newell represented the Grant District of Hancock County at the Democratic state judicial convention at Clarksburg.

The 80th anniversary of the organization of the Salineville Church of Christ was observed with an all-day program, with John Duncan reviewing the history of the church.

Herman Martin was elected president during the 37th annual reunion of the descendants of Mr. and Mrs. Sinclair Martin at Thompson Park.

TWENTY YEARS AGO — Representatives of the East Liverpool Seventh-Day Adventist congregation outlined plans for a $30,000 church on a North Side site.

TEN YEARS AGO — Second Lt. Thomas G. Worcester of Wyoming Ave. was awarded the silver wings of a paratrooper at Ft. Campbell, Ky.

The theft of two rings valued at about $700 from a North Side home was reported to the police.

Issue Dodged

By David Lawrence

Congress Hit On Strike Dawdling

Congress is frittering away its time and really dodging the basic issue in the airline strike—whether the American people are to be protected in the future against serious interruptions in interstate commerce.

The truth is that members of both the Senate and the House are afraid of labor unions generally and of their political power. Yet a vast majority in both houses are well aware that the airline strike can be followed by others even more serious and that the voters are growing more and more irritated over David Lawrence strikes that disregard the public interest.

One of the big puzzles in the whole situation has received scant attention in Congress. Nobody has arisen to ask why the officers of the Machinists Union signed an agreement on Friday, July 29, which was repudiated within 48 hours by an overwhelming vote of the members.

The executives of the union certainly must have been aware of the sentiment of their constituents. That they would sign an agreement which is promptly repudiated is hard to explain. It could not have been just a grandstand play — to seem to be acquiescing in President Johnson's wishes as the chief negotiators on both sides appeared with him on television to announce the signing of the contract.

IT HAS BEEN SUGGESTED that perhaps the union negotiators did not really know what the membership would do, and felt that it was their obligation to sign the document anyway and sent it on to the members throughout the country for ratification or rejection.

The argument made in behalf of the union leaders is that collective bargaining is a democratic process and has to be participated in by the members.

It also is true that the representatives of management cannot always be sure that the board of directors of the company or the stockholders would ratify an agreement if they had a chance to do so as a part of the collective bargaining process.

Secretary of Labor Willard Wirtz realized as early as July 20 that the labor-union negotiators were playing a game. He had proposed that a tentative agreement be sent to the Machinists Union locals to be voted on. Mr. Wirtz commented on the scheme when he said: "This makes a farce of collective bargaining and of the mediation process."

The only difference between what was being advocated on July 20 and what has happened since is that the negotiators actually signed the agreement last week and then arranged to have it voted on by the membership at large.

MEANWHILE, CONGRESS is dawdling along while compromise proposals are being drafted that will permit the airlines to resume operations while another negotiation for either 30 or 60 days ensues. Members of Congress on Wednesday voted down a proposal by Sen. Lausche that compulsory arbitration be written into law. Many members privately said that they did so only because a compromise plan was being worked on behind the scenes at the Capitol and that some temporary solution was about to be offered.

Mr. Lausche told the Senate that a settlement, not of the current airline strike alone but of all strikes in the transportation field, is absolutely necessary. He said Congress has a right to intervene because the federal government has invested about $2.1 billion in airline operations through subsidies and by providing airway facilities.

The essence of the whole situation is that the airline unions are about to benefit by their rejection of the company offer, which had the approval of President Johnson. New offers now will be made, and the union will be able to insist upon an improvement of all previous proposals. Obviously more and more time is to be made available for negotiations.

COLLECTIVE BARGAINING, of course, was not conceived as a one-way street. If the labor-union members have the right to vote on all contracts signed by their representatives, management also should have the right to submit the contracts to their directors and their stockholders. Certainly such a process would delay agreements, and maybe by the time all this is done public opinion would be vocal enough to insist that Congress pass legislation prescribing modes of arbitration that would be binding on both sides in all disputes of a serious nature that affect interstate commerce.

Odd Facts

The origin of the dollar symbol $ used today comes from the sign of the old Spanish piece of eight. This sign showed the figure 8 (which strongly represents the letter S), crossed by two lines representing the Pillars of Hercules, the gateway between the Mediterranean and Atlantic at the southernmost tip of Spain. Thus the dollar sign really has nothing to do with the letter S, nor was it, as some people believe, originally formed by placing a narrow U over an S to form the monogram of the United States.

The average annual mileage covered by American motorists today is still about 10,000 — which it has been for the last 20 years — and the average citizen who buys a new car drives it for only two or three years before turning it in for another new model.

In southern and western Iceland, hot water springs supply business houses, schools and private dwellings with sufficient hot water to take care of all their heating requirements.

'Prayer Retreat' Set At Beaver Creek Camp

Miss Edith McBane of Pittsburgh will be guest speaker during the fifth annual Prayer Retreat of the Steubenville Presbyterian Aug. 15-16 at Beaver Creek Camp.

She has been serving on the commission on ecumenical missions and relations of the United Presbyterian Church since the formation in 1958. In the fall of 1963, she was one of five representatives of the commission who went to India and Pakistan for the conference for church leaders. In the 3½ months she was overseas, she visited the work in Japan, Hong Kong, Thailand, Ethiopia, North Sudan, Egypt, Lebanon and Geneva.

In 1961, Miss McBane completed a three-year term on the national executive committee of United Presbyterian Women, having served as recording secretary. Before that, she was a member of the Board of Directors of the Women's General Missionary Society of North America and spent 19 years in the Pittsburgh headquarters.

In connection with the merger of the Presbyterian and United Presbyterian churches, she participated in the work of a permanent committee on inter-church relations and the joint drafting of the committee of the plan of union of the special committee on consolidation.

A graduate of Chatham College, she is a member of the Mt. Lebanon United Presbyterian Church and past president of its Women's Missionary Society.

Mrs. Herman Ramsay will have charge of registration, beginning at 2 p. m. Monday at Rose Lodge. The theme for the retreat will be "Come, Create or Spirit."

Mrs. Anderson Pugh, fellowship chairman of the Presbyterian, will extend the welcome. Mrs. Lee Myers, spiritual life chairman, will lead devotions. Bible study leaders will be Mrs. Ethel Richman, Mrs. William Ogilvie, Mrs. Frank Hare and Mrs. John J. Rietz.

Evening vespers will be conducted by women of the Grace United Church under the leadership of Mrs. Norman Neal. Mrs. Wayne Faust of Waynesburg will be song leader. Mrs. Herbert Frischkorn will lead the "Time For Sharing." Following vespers, Mrs. Raymond LaRue will direct a playlet "Neighbors."

The Bible Study Groups will meet again Tuesday morning following a message from Miss McBane on ecumenical missions.

The retreat will close with the "Walk to Emmaus" and prayer. Mrs. James Barnhouse, president of the Presbyterian, will preside.

Newell Society

Mrs. J. D. Miller EV 7-2721

The congregation of the Glendale Church of the Nazarene held a farewell party Friday night in the IOOF Hall in Newell for the Rev. Wilbur Beaver and family, who will leave next Friday to make their home in Rutland, Ohio.

Rev. Beaver, who has been pastor of the Glendale church for seven years and four months, has accepted a pastorate at the Rutland Nazarene Church.

Miss Debbie Dotson registered guests, who attended from Newell, Chester, New Cumberland and East Liverpool.

Gifts were presented Mrs. Beaver by friends and Mrs. Irene Heath presented a set of dishes to Rev. and Mrs. Beaver on behalf of the church itself.

Refreshments were served 90 from a buffet table centered with an arrangement of pink flowers atop a gold cherubim and white lighted tapers.

Blessing was offered by Rev. Beaver.

Mrs. Heath and the committee were in charge of arrangements for the affair.

Rev. Beaver will preach his farewell sermon at the Glendale church Sunday morning at 10:45, with all welcome to attend.

John Wesley Class of the Newell Methodist Church will hold a corn roast for members and families Monday night at 8 o'clock at Crestview Park on Route 66.

Ray Scott, Delmar Anderson and Denzil Walker comprise the committee in charge.

Couple Honored At Post-Nuptial Shower At Home

Mr. and Mrs. Larry Maple were honored with a post-nuptial shower at the home of his brother and sister-in-law Mr. and Mrs. Gene Nicholson of Chester Ave.

Games and contests were played, with prizes awarded the winners.

Refreshments were served 35 at a buffet table covered with a pink cloth. The centerpiece was an inscribed sheet cake decorated with wedding rings and silver bells. An arrangement of pink and white snapdragons and a crystal punch bowl completed the setting.

Mrs. Maple was the former Lynn Sachs, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George P. Sachs of Calcutta. Her husband is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Allen Maple of St. Clair Ave., Ex.

The couple was married July 3 at the Longs Run United Presbyterian Church, with the Rev. Richard Shipley officiating for the double-ring ceremony.

The bride was attired in a white dress with pastel green accessories and white orchid corsage.

Miss Debbie Smith, maid of honor, wore a blue dress with white accessories and corsage of blue-tinged carnations.

David Schuck was best man.

A wedding dinner for the immediate families and friends followed at the home of the bride's parents. The table was centered with a three-tier cake, topped with a miniature bride and groom.

The bridegroom is employed with Delta Air Lines at O'Hare Field in Chicago, where the newlyweds will reside.

Missionary Day To Be Observed

REV. KING

REV. COWLES

REV. ADKINS

MELVIN EBERHARD

REV. LENTZ

REV. BUSHONG

DR. DUEWELL

REV. McLAIN

Missionary Day will be observed next Friday at the 128th annual camp meeting at Hollow Rock.

The following will take part in the program:

The Rev. Louis A. King, foreign secretary for the Christian and Missionary Alliance; the Rev. David L. Cowles, the Rev. Richard Adkins, the Rev. Burns Bushong, the Rev. Jimmy Lentz and Melvin Eberhard, all with the World Gospel Mission, and the Rev. Dale McLain and Dr. Wesley Duewell, both with the Oriental Missionary Society.

REV. KING has had an extended ministry within the borders of India and among millions of Hindus and Moslems. He taught in the Gujarat Bible Training Institute. He will speak Aug. 14 at 2:30 p.m., closing day of the camp meeting.

Rev. Cowles is noted for his work among youth and is a son of missionary parents to Hong Kong.

Rev. Adkins, missionary from Kenya, Africa, is a son of missionary parents and grew up in the mission field, with a special understanding of the Kipsigis people.

With his experience along the Mexican border in missionary work and three terms of service in Honduras, Rev. Bushong will report on the work in Honduras and also Bolivia, where more than 20,000 were converted.

Rev. Lentz again will speak at the camp meeting services describing his varied fields of missionary activity.

Eberhard, from the Central America field in Honduras.

as, is noted for his house-to-house evangelism.

REV. McLAIN will review the conditions facing the church inside Communist China.

Rev. Duewell again will preach at Hollow Rock. He is regarded as a leading authority on Christian Missionary work in India.

Evangelists scheduled to speak Sunday include Dr. T. M. Anderson of Wilmore, Ky., the Rev. Don Humble of Piketon, Ohio, the Rev. Charles Williams of Washington Court House, Ohio, and Dr. Harold Loman of Salisbury, N.C.

'Witnesses' Rally Will Be Attended By Midland Unit

A delegation representing the Midland congregation of Jehovah's Witnesses has completed plans to attend the "God's Sons of Liberty" district convention in Baltimore, Md. The group will leave early next week.

Donald Devich of Smith's Ferry R. D. 1, local presiding minister, said the gathering will be held in Memorial Stadium, home of the Orioles baseball club, Aug. 17-21, with more than 50,000 due to attend.

He said all meetings of the local congregation will be suspended during the convention week.

"This will in no sense be a revival or religious crusade," said Devich. "It is rather a five-day program of Bible talks, discussions and interviews designed to strengthen our faith and equip us for life and service to God in the days that lie just ahead."

An added feature of the program will be the presentation of full-costume dramatizations of important portions of the Bible covering incidents in the lives of Joseph, Joshua, Daniel and Jeremiah demonstrating their unshakable integrity to God.

A mass baptism will be held Aug. 19.

On the final day of the convention, Fred W. Franz, vice president of the Watchtower Society, will address the delegates on "What Has God's Kingdom Been Doing Since 1914?"

Many of the Midland Witnesses will have overnight accommodations in private homes, since Baltimore's commercial lodging facilities will be filled to capacity.

Musicians To Appear Here Sunday

A student group from the Moody Bible Institute, Chicago, Ill., called the Melody Aires, will appear Sunday at the 11 a.m. worship at the Calcutta United Presbyterian Church.

The group is touring the Midwest and eastern United States, holding sacred concerts in churches and at Bible conferences for the institute's public relations division. They present a varied program of sacred instrumental and vocal music.

LEADER OF the group is

Tim Mayfield, a sophomore from Zion, Ill., who sings bass and plays trombone, guitar and piano. He is a member of the Moody Chorale as well as the brass choir and orchestra.

The other members of the group are Keith Currie, a junior from Southgate, Mich., who sings second tenor and plays trumpet. He is in the second music course and plays with the brass choir and orchestra.

WALDY KRAHN, a junior from Victoria, British Columbia, is the first tenor and is in the Christian education - music course and sings with the institute's oratorio chorus.

Baritone Skip Garmoe, a sophomore from Bell, Calif., also sings with the oratorio chorus and is in the missionary aviation course. Pianist Ernie Puscher, a sophomore from San Lorenzo, Calif., is enrolled in the sacred music course and sings with the oratorio chorus.

Horace Mann School Group Honors Miss Ann Johnston

Miss Ann Johnston, who has been named principal at Westgate School, after serving in the same capacity at Horace Mann School for 20 years, was honored at a smorgasbord dinner Thursday evening at Thompson Park by members of the Horace Mann Home and School Association. Fifty attended.

The invocation was given by the Rev. Arthur S. Williams of the Pennsylvania Ave. Methodist Church. Remarks were given by Richard Carter, a parent.

On behalf of the association, Lee Kriner, vice president, presented Miss Johnston with a chain watch. She also received other personal gifts.

The religious centerpiece, which was a replica of a green forest flanked by angel figurines, highlighted the green, pink and white decorations. The centerpiece was presented to Miss Johnston.

The arrangements committee included Mrs. Elizabeth Carter, Mrs. Betty Goss, Mrs. Jennie Kriner, Mrs. Ruby Wright, Mrs.

Carletta Arrington, Mrs. Ralph Ealy, Mrs. Robert Estell and Mrs. Kenneth Birch. Teachers who assisted were Mrs. Ruth Kincaid, Mrs. Ila Watkins, Mrs. Nelda Fluharty and Mrs. Elizabeth Hist.

A MOMENT OF MEDITATION

The Alarming Moral Decay

Much attention has been focused recently on the moral condition of our nation. When we look at the ever-increasing crime rate, the break-down in respect for home life and the marriage relationship (about one in every four marriages ends in divorce) and the general disrespect for authority, it is evident that we need to take time to look at ourselves and see if we can do anything to stop this moral decay. The wise man Solomon said in Prov. 14:34, "Righteousness exalteth a nation: but sin is a reproach to any people." Though people speak of the nation as a "Christian Nation" we need to be aware of the fact that one of the greatest dangers to us is that of moral decay.

The answer to this problem can be found in men and women going to the Bible and following the teaching of God. What a great difference would be wrought in our country and in the world if all would begin to recognize God and would follow His teachings. God is the only one who can tell us how to live in this present life and to get the most of it. He also is the only one who can tell us how to make ready for the life that is to come. Titus 2:11,12 "For the grace of God that bringeth salvation hath appeared to all men, teaching us that, denying ungodliness and worldly lusts, we should live soberly, righteously, and godly, in this present world." What a terrible direction we have headed when we decide that there should be no restrictions and no regulations.

Some have advocated what is termed "New Morality." The teaching advocates complete freedom of action in the satisfaction of the desires of man. It seeks to free men from any laws and thereby reduces man to the state of mere animals. In view of such ideas, it is no marvel then that there is so much crime, lust and disrespect for authority in general.

If we are truly interested in preserving this nation and we are concerned about lawlessness, the answer can be seen in returning to God. The answer is not found in the ideas of men. The atheist has nothing to offer to raise the standards of morality. The worldly-minded man offers only a temporary pleasure which is quickly gone. The Christian, however, has the highest possible standards of morality. He offers through God, not only a better life here but also a perfect life in eternity. 1 Tim. 4:8 "For bodily exercise profiteth little: but godliness is profitable unto all things, having promise of the life that now is and of that which is to come."

Are you concerned about the general conditions that we see in the world? You can help in improving them by showing a greater respect for God and His Word. Worship with us this coming Sunday. You are cordially invited.

Mrs. Edward Hupp, Mgr.

YOU ALONE know the memories of a treasured past. Think what a Memorial means to your family and friends — to the casual passerby — to visitors, a century from now. All will know that you cared enough to leave the only permanent record of their existence that man can leave on the face of the earth . . . A Graham and Wagner Monument . . . a truly significant Memorial. If your family plot still lacks a Monument, we suggest you visit our display rooms, where you can actually see what you select. Our modern facilities enable us to offer estimates within any budget—large or small, and at the same time maintain the highest standard of quality—for which we are known. If, for reasons of economy or cemetery restrictions, you require a Bronze Marker, we carry a complete line, for your convenience. We also furnish transportation, if you live beyond a visit, without obligation. A simple act of attention now, can transform a barren plot to one of beauty . . . ever-whispering to passersby, "Someone dear lies here."

Everything you request is a command of major importance to us and will receive our careful, thorough attention and execution.

We endeavor to make our every service a sincere tribute to the memory of the deceased . . . and a satisfying remembrance to the family we serve.

Church Here

Will Dedicate New Building

Members of the Gospel Temple who have been worshipping for the last nine years at 647 St. Clair Ave. have purchased a structure at 242 W. 9th St. Dedication of the new place of worship will be held Sunday at 3 p.m., with the welcome address to be given by the pastor, Clifford J. Mount. The church is affiliated with the Northwestern District of the Christian Churches of North America.

The Rev. R. L. Corsini, international secretary - treasurer of the missionary department, will be among the guests.

A district official will give the invocation. The song service will be led by the Rev. Mario DelMastro, zone chairman, and the dedicatory prayer by the Rev. J. M. Marasco, district chairman.

Remarks will be presented by Andy Mark Jr., zone secretary-treasurer, and other church officials.

Glendale Church

Pastor Will Give Farewell Sermon

The Rev. Wilbur Beaver pastor of the Glendale Church of the Nazarene near Newell since June 1959, has resigned to accept a charge at Rutland, Ohio.

He will preach his final sermon Sunday during 10:45 a.m. worship.

He will be succeeded by the Rev. George Hazlett of Barrett, W. Va., who will take over the pastorate some time in September.

A farewell party was held Friday for Rev. and Mrs. Beaver by the congregation.

Industry Church

Will Hold Picnic

The annual parish picnic of the St. Christine Catholic Church of Industry will be held Aug. 21 at Brady's Run Park, Shelter 7, beginning at 1 p.m.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Benek were named general chairman at a meeting of the Guild and church committee this week at their home in Industry.

The outing will feature games, with prizes. The children will be given special treats. Beverages for adults and children, ice cream, pretzels and potato chips will be furnished. Each family is to bring a picnic lunch.

Everyone Wonders Why They're Not Cut

The Wonder Weeds

Weeds, as is their wont in late July and August, are bustin' out all over.

And although a majority of householders and property owners are cutting and spraying and digging and picking, the weeds are winning in too many places.

Until city crews cleaned out the curb area of lower St. Clair Ave. late this week, that area was taking on the semblance of a jungle trail in central Kenya.

Even now, small children and dogs are unable to see across certain streets because of a tangle of goose grass, burdock and other wild-growing greenery.

Hip-high weeds may be excusable along a rural lane, but to permit them to spread unchecked within the city or suburban areas is an affront to the appearance of the community and hazard to those allergic to their dusts and pollen.

Safety-Service Director Robert Vodrey Friday issued an appeal to property owners in East Liverpool to clear weeds from empty lots, curb areas and brick sidewalks, pointing out the owners are responsible for keeping their land clean and free of any nuisance.

It is lamentable that a city official has to ask for such action, for anyone with an interest in his home, neighborhood or community should keep it properly maintained and attractive.

A weed is any plant which man does not want in a certain place. Generally, plantain, buckhorn, dandelions, Canada thistle, Spanish needles, ray weed, golden rod, horsetail fleabane and others fill this requirement. Even a rose, however, can be a weed if it is growing unwanted in a vegetable patch or in the corner of a sidewalk.

Certain homes and business places can also be weeds—unsightly and unwanted.

If the owners of such offensive nuisances are unwilling to cooperate in improving their neighborhoods, direct action in enforcement of laws pertaining to such situations is certainly warranted, even hoped for by those interested in community progress.

Straggly weeds obscure intersection of 3rd and Market Sts. in this midget-eye view of the heavy-traveled Route 30 thoroughfare.

Tree limbs, tall weeds create "tunnel" on lower St. Clair Ave.

You And The Law

Matilda bought a packaged home permanent. Three days after she used it she was bald. Angry and humiliated, Matilda sued the XYZ Home Permanent Co. for damages.

XYZ argued that it never had seen Matilda, never sold her anything and had made no representations to her that the permanent wave was harmless. It argued that Matilda had done business only with the store which sold her the permanent and that if she had any claim it was against the store.

MATILDA WON her case, but a few years ago she might have lost. The last few years have seen the development of new rules in a field of law called product liability. In the past the courts accepted the argument used here by the XYZ company. They saw no contact between manufacturer and consumer, only between merchant and consumer. In the absence of contact—called privity—there could be no liability. But modern law has changed.

Today the courts might look, for example, to XYZ's advertising. If XYZ advertised that its product was effective for waving hair and that it was harmless, if XYZ urged people to buy its product, people like Matilda are justified in relying on that advertising.

THE COURTS have noted also that many products today are sold in sealed packages. The merchant handles only the package. He never opens it and the product within comes to the consumer in exactly the condition it was in when the manufacturer placed it in the package. The manufacturer, not the merchant, therefore, is responsible for the condition of the product.

This new development in the law has placed new responsibility on the manufacturer of the products we buy and use. He may be held in court to the words he used in advertising his products. Untruthful advertising becomes more and more dangerous. He is held to greater care in quality control. He is discouraged from manufacturing a hazardous product in the first place.

FOOD FAVORITES

Mrs. Elizabeth Wellington of 25th St. Heights, Wellsville, submits these salmon recipes good for outside patio meals.

Salmonburgers

1 can (1 lb.) salmon
1/2 cup chopped onion
1/4 cup melted fat or oil
1-3 cup salmon liquid
1-3 cup dry bread crumbs
2 eggs, beaten
1/4 cup chopped parsley
1 tsp. powdered mustard
1/2 tsp. salt
1/2 cup dry bread crumbs
1-3 cup mayonnaise or salad dressing

1 tbsp. chopped sweet pickle
6 buttered hamburger rolls
Drain salmon, reserving liquid. Flake salmon. Cook onion in fat until tender. Add salmon liquid, crumbs, egg, parsley, mustard, salt and salmon, mix well and shape into burgers. Roll in crumbs. Fry in hot fat in a heavy fry pan about 4 inches from hot coals for 3 minutes.

Turn carefully and fry for 3 or 4 minutes longer or until brown. Drain on absorbent paper. Combine mayonnaise mixture and put on top half of roll.

Salmon Fruit Salad

1 can (1 lb.) salmon
1 avocado, peeled and sliced
1 tbsp. lemon juice
2 cups orange sections
1 1/2 cups sliced celery
1/2 cup toasted, blanched and slivered almonds
1-3 cup mayonnaise or salad dressing
salad greens

Drain salmon and break into large pieces. Sprinkle avocado with lemon juice to prevent discoloration. Reserve 6 avocado slices and 6 orange sections for garnish. Cut remaining avocado and orange in 1-inch pieces. Combine all ingredients except salad greens, chill. Shape into a mound on greens and garnish with alternate slices of avocado and orange.

Overgrown lot mars Horn Switch area of St. Clair Ave., Broadway.

Unwanted greenery chocks curb along Broadway.

Stamps In The News

The forthcoming U.S. stamp commemorating the 50th anniversary of the National Park Service will feature the service's newly created symbol—"Parkscape U.S.A." The 5-cent stamp will be issued Aug. 25 in Yellowstone National Park, Wyoming.

"Parkscape U.S.A." is a bold symbol to identify the National Park Service facilities.

ties easily to some 137 million visitors that the Department of Interior says will visit its 231 areas this year. The design consists of three V-shaped elements in green arranged to indicate a triangle. Inset are three black circles. The background is yellow. Upper left of the stamp appears "National Park Service 1916-1966" in black.

The design is supposed to symbolize the three categories of parks—natural, historical and recreational. The national park system dates back to 1872 but it was not until Aug. 25, 1916, that the National Park Service was created as a bureau under the Department of Interior. On that date President Woodrow Wilson signed the congressional bill.

Collectors desiring first-day cancellations may send addressed envelopes together with remittance to cover the cost of the stamps to be affixed, to the Postmaster, Yellowstone National Park, Wyo.

MOROCCO HAS issued two new stamps for the benefit of the Moroccan Red Crescent Society, that country's counterpart of the Red Cross. The stamps were issued in honor of Rabat Seminar, a meeting in May of the National Red Crescent Societies of the Middle East and North Africa. The reports of the issuance came from the American Red Cross headquarters in Washington.

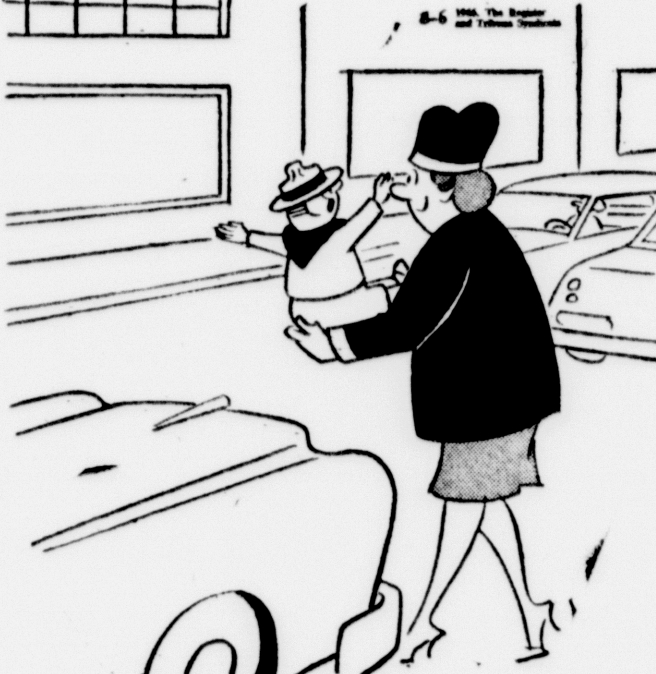

NORWAY HAS announced the issuance of two new postage stamps to honor the 150th anniversary of the birth of Johan Sverdrup (1816-1892), statesman and prime minister of that country. Sverdrup was a lawyer who was elected a member of the Storting (Norway's Parliament) in 1851.

He was a leader for democratic principles, people's rights, extended franchise, introduction of the jury system and democratization of the Norwegian army. He became prime minister in 1884 as the head of Norway's first liberal government, but his party lost the election in 1888 and Sverdrup resigned in 1889. He died three years later. The two stamps, 30 ore olive gray and 60 ore carmine brown, depict a photograph of Sverdrup from an old portrait.

THE wave of emotionalism over guns has swept over the United States again following the massacre in Texas by a sniper.

It happens every time there is a shooting that receives wide publicity. The same thing happened when President Kennedy was assassinated.

Now the controversial gun control bill by Sen. Thomas H. Dodd is back in the limelight and President Lyndon B. Johnson is pushing legislation to prevent "the wrong person" from obtaining firearms.

And so another battle has erupted. On one side there are those who want to outlaw firearms, or at least put stringent restrictions on their ownership, and on the other, those who claim their right to have guns.

The key seems to be a question of who is "wrong" and who is "right." Who are the "responsible persons" being talked about? Who is to judge?

I CANNOT HELP but cringe at the thought of having to be examined by some politically-appointed official and then being ruled responsible or irresponsible in order to own a gun. And if some had their way, this would happen.

How do officials expect to keep weapons from the criminal element just by passing such controls? It is illegal to carry a concealed weapon, but criminals do it just the same.

There is talk of having all guns registered. How this will keep someone from shooting another person is difficult to understand. It might help in police investigation, but it would not prevent the shooting.

I agree controls are needed against indiscriminate sale of guns. I don't believe anyone under 21 should be allowed to will hand their young son the keys to the family car and turn him loose. They wouldn't think of allowing junior to have a rifle, but they will give him the car which is a much more dangerous weapon. The car certainly claims the lives of more persons than are shot with guns. It seems the public is hardened against the carnage on the highways. It is accepted.

In a growing society such as ours, controls are necessary. But let's investigate all phases of the proposed controls and not let our emotion run away with us.

The right to bear arms is as old as this nation. In fact, the ownership and use of guns is encouraged by the Defense Department's Office of Civilian Marksmanship, which feels good marksmanship is vital to the defense and security of our country.

I am for legislation that will help clear up the crime situation, but I don't favor legislation that is carried through on the tide of emotionalism. It might do more harm than good.

If you have any thoughts on gun controls, either for or against, why not let your congressman or senator know them. Offer your opinions. This is a controversial situation and I am sure they would like to hear from those they represent.

OHIO'S DEER HERDS are increasing, according to estimates based on highway kills.

There were 361 killed on highways the first six months of this year while another 48 were killed by various other causes, for a total of 409. This is 34 per cent above that of the first six months last year, the previous record year, according to the Division of Wildlife.

TROTLINE FISHING is suggested as a method of catching some big ones during August. As a matter of fact, some of the largest fish taken are caught on trotlines.

The best catches occur at night and usually are catfish. One of the biggest mistakes made is in the size of the bait used. Most fishermen feel that to catch a large catfish, a large half pound chunk of bait must be used. But, the oldtime professionals will tell you that a small bait on a number eight or nine, short-shanked, straight - bend hook works best.

Catfish have a good sense of smell and will find the bait while on the prow.

Some of the popular baits are worms, soft craws, shad, beef heart, sharp cheese, liver and even perfumed bath soap.

The line should be nylon and over 18-pound test. Space the drop lines so they will not tangle. For example, if the drop line is a foot long, space them two feet apart. Catfish twist and turn when caught, so it is best to use swivels where the drop line is attached to the main line.

Trotline fishing is very good at Clendenning Lake. Two old pros, Frank Davis of New Philadelphia and Elmer Affolter of Ulrichsville, caught 13 flathead catfish there a week ago. The total weight was 432½ pounds, an average of nearly 33 pounds per fish. Several other nice catches also were reported.

Elmer and Frank are featured in one of the stories in the current issue of Wonderful World of Ohio magazine.

BASS ARE HITTING on Beaver Creek at night on jitter-bugs and poppers. A few other fish also are being taken, but in general fishing is slow.

On Lake Erie perch, channel catfish and fresh water drum are being taken. Mosquito and Pymatuning Lakes are recommended for walleyes and Leesville for muskie.

The outlook for the weekend is fair. Fishing is good in most of Pennsylvania, according to reports from Keystone fish wardens.

TRY USING a smaller hook the next time you are fishing with live bait. Many of us could profit by imitating trout fishermen. They use a very small hook, size 10, 12, or smaller, and easily hold big fish.

Sometimes when you try to catch a mess of bluegills or crappies, change from a larger hook and see how much better you do. Bluegills and crappies have mouths so small they can't possibly take the big hook.

Also by using a small hook, it can be buried deep in the bait and that big bass you have been trying for won't be spooked by chomping down on a large hook.

VIRGIL L. DAVIS of 1252 Hague Ave. has caught what is believed to be one of the largest shovelhead catfish ever pulled from Beaver Creek.

Davis landed the 27-pound fish, which measured 27 inches, from a spot near Grimms Bridge late Thursday night.

National Ad 'Stars' Ex-Resident

The dancing livelihood of Jerry Flint, former area resident, is featured in full page advertisements of current and forthcoming issues of "Life," "Look," "The Saturday Evening Post," "Sports Illustrated" and "Time" magazines.

He and his wife, the former Donna Neenan of Cleveland, are shown in several pictures at the dance studio which they have been operating in South Bend, Ind., for the past four years.

Jerry, son of Mrs. Clara Flint of 1709 Park Ave. and the late Ray Flint, became interested in dancing at a very early age but due to a seige of rheumatic fever, was unable to take any lessons until he became 11 years old.

HE ATTENDED the Bill Cassidy Dance Studio where he later taught. Jerry teamed up with Sammy Grimes and they became popular area entertainers. Sammy is also in South Bend with his family, but no longer participating in dancing.

While Jerry was in the area, he was associated with Denny Smith of Wellsville, who this fall will do a specialty on the "Miss America Pageant" at Atlantic City. He is also doing the choreography for the show.

Flint was graduated in 1954 from East Liverpool High School and went to Cleveland where he and Sammy appeared on television and toured the night club circuit of Cleveland, Akron and Chicago.

He met his wife, also a professional dancer, in Cleveland and the trio formed a dancing act. Later, Sammy left the act, and Jerry and Donna traveled under the professional name of "The Mobiles" appearing in many supper clubs in the states and Canada.

The couple were the first and only dance team to win top honors on the Arthur Godfrey Talent Show, when they appeared in 1956.

They have been on programs with Pat Boone, Polly Bergen, Andy Williams, Jack Carter, Ted Lewis, George Jessel and Tommy Sands.

IN THEIR professional training, they have studied under Glen Shipley of the West Coast, who was movie star Vera Ellen's coach, and Louis Da Prom, who coached Donald O'Connor and formerly did the choreography for the Perry Como Show. They also studied at the Ballet Art Studios of New York City.

The Flints have bought a home and settled down in South Bend, but still occasionally do a performance in the clubs.

This summer, the couple are doing the choreography for The Country Playhouse in South Bend which is presenting such plays as "The Sound of Music," "South Pacific," "Carousel" and "A Funny Thing Happened on the Way to the Forum."

They have three children, Sheila, 2; Danny, 3, and Sherrie, who at 5 has already appeared on television.

The family was chosen from a large group of applicants to appear in the advertisement.

The Lighter Side

YOU'RE WHAT THE actuaries fondly call a young old-timer if you can remember when: National magazines sold for 5 cents a copy and little boys in knickers and caps made spending money by delivering them door-to-door each week.

A vest was as necessary an item of clothing as socks — and generally fit better.

The sight of a man carrying a picket sign invariably meant a labor dispute.

Movie stars expressed no opinions on political contests, much less thought of placing their names on the ballot as office-seekers.

Twenty-five dollars was a weekly wage, not the deduction for federal income tax.

Two cents bought a newspaper, a first class postage stamp, two postal cards or a double handful of questionable, but tempting, multi-colored candy.

AUTOS CAME in two price classes, standard and deluxe, and no manufacturer dared name his models for exotic animals or atmospheric disturbances.

A casual observer could tell the boys from the girls just by noting hair and clothing styles.

Grandmothers were kindly creatures of white hair, benign countenances and long skirts, always ready to hand out a piece of apple pie and sure to know the folk remedy for everything from fallen arches to astigmatism.

Food markets displayed their specials in geometric stacks on the sidewalks and no passerby thought of tilting a can.

The radio program, "Amos and Andy," was so popular that many movie houses interrupted their films for 15 minutes every evening while audiences listened to the sound pipes over the speaker system.

One bathroom was considered enough for one house — or the whole floor of a hotel.

Cigarettes came in flat metal boxes, known as "Flat Fifties," holding the equivalent of two and a half packs.

Ice cream came in three standard flavors — vanilla, chocolate and strawberry — and a big spender plunked down a dime for a scoop of one variety on top of another.

The A & P. Gypsies and the Cluqut Club Eskimos were orchestras of wide fame in the early days of radio. And no station stooped to playing recorded music, but kept a pianist or a staff orchestra standing by, just in case of network trouble.

It was possible to park an auto anywhere in a city's business district — except in the largest metropolis — and without dropping coins into a meter slot.

Brussels sprouts came out of the kitchen garden, not from a deepfreeze.

GIRLS AND BOYS of 13 and 14 played "Red Rover" or hide-and-seek on long, hot summer evenings, not daring to dream of dates and cars and ready cash and other prerogatives of grownups.

Artificial hearts, space rockets and 2,000-m.p.h. planes were subjects for far-out science fiction.

A musical recording was comprised of one tune played by 25 musicians, not vice versa.

Smoke curling from a chimney meant that a stove or a furnace was fired up for utilitarian heating purposes — not that the family was grilling hamburgers in a fireplace because rain interrupted a cook-out.

Cheer-leaders were the only females who wore skirts that ended at mid-thigh.

Girls in gymnasium classes turned out in voluminous black bloomers, middie blouses and black stockings. With hair ribbons, yet!

Enterprising dollar watch makers turned out "souvenir" models to mark notable events. The cases of the pocket watches were covered with simulated engraving that showed Lindbergh's plane or scenes from the Century of Progress, a 1939 extravaganza in Chicago.

The most widely-read daily newspaper columnists included Will Rogers, Heywood Brown, O. O. McIntyre, Bugs Baer and Arthur Brisbane.

Watering troughs still stood at strategic locations along city streets, some made of hollowed out tree trunks, others fashioned of metal or stone. Many were placed near the top of steep grades or around the edge of the Village Square.

"SWAT THE FLY" campaigns burgeoned with the advent of the first hot summer weather and continued until frost ended another season of the pests. The dangers of the diseases allegedly carried by the common house fly were dinned into the ears of grade school pupils. Curlicues of sticky paper dangled from chandeliers and ceilings of many homes to entrap the unwary insects. Poison-laden paper was placed in shallow containers of water in another effort to eradicate them.

Every youngster over 10, particularly simpering little girls, was primed with a half a dozen recitations learned by rote that could be delivered—with gestures—before admiring company in the parlor. Who can forget "The Wreck of the Hesperus" or "Thanatopsis?"

Tri-State Tour Tips

Among the attractions of the Warren and Youngtown areas are Mosquito Creek Reservoir, Lake Milton, and Berlin Reservoir.

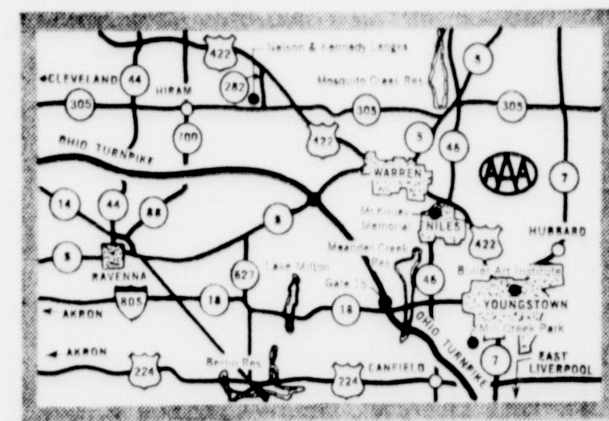

The Mosquito Creek Reservoir on Routes 87, 88 and 5 is one of Ohio's largest bodies of water, with good bass fishing reported.

Lake Milton, 1,700 acres on Route 18, is a source of water supply for Youngtown.

Berlin Reservoir is in the Mahoning River Valley, extending across corners of four counties. The 5,500-acre reservation in which the lake is located is a wildlife preserve.

Youngstown's Mill Creek Park covers 1,750 acres. It is rated by many as Ohio's most beautiful natural park. Its features include a 6 - mile long gorge, three lakes, a waterfall and scenic areas. Entrances are located on Routes 18 and 224.

Also at Youngstown on Wick Ave. is the Butler Institute of American Art. Here may be seen paintings and etchings by American artists. A special feature is the collection of miniatures of American residents.

Fifteen miles northwest of Warren off Route 422 are the Nelson - Kennedy Ledges. Rock gorges and trails are attractions here.

At Niles is the McKinley Monument. This handsome memorial in the city where President McKinley was born, houses a collection of relics.

Also in the area of the tour is the village of Hiram, with several claims to fame—most recently as the training camp for the Cleveland Browns football team. This village, in hilly dairy and orchard country, was established by Masons in 1802. It is the home of Hiram College.

The Columbiana County Motor Club suggests Route 7 from East Liverpool to the Youngstown tour area.

Home Hints

By Ann Overturf

Columbiana County Home Economist

The arrangements of furniture certainly adds much to the comfort and beauty of a living room.

Since paper is easier to move than furniture, it is a good idea to plan different arrangements on paper first, using paper cut - outs of furniture to scale.

Furniture in the living area should be arranged in groups for family requirements—sewing, reading, visiting or writing. To decide what groupings your family needs in a particular room, list the ways to use the room. Arrangement of furniture in groups helps enjoyment of each activity, whether work, play or rest.

The major conversation center is typically the dominant furniture group. This grouping is best when people face each other. For easy conversation, the distance across the grouping should be no more than 8 to 10 feet. This size of a conversation area allows a group to chat without yelling or feeling isolated.

IN A LARGE room this should not be the only grouping because the seats would be too far apart. A circle shape, more or less, is most satisfactory. This might be chairs and sofa facing a coffee table, or at right angles to each other.

A corner, a window wall, fireplace, or built - in furniture usually stabilizes this grouping.

A secondary conversation or reading center often supplements this major group in larger rooms. Here is a less important area of the room where people might sit down to chat. This area might be the favorite spot for reading and include a good reading lamp and bookcase.

Some families might want to include a music center, featuring a piano or stereo along with a chair for listening pleasure.

A game center might be desired in other homes. Television cabinets are conspicuous and often not very attractive in a living room. However, the TV may often dictate the arrangement of the entire room.

Begin by placing the largest pieces of furniture. They usually demand the longest wall space.

Large pieces are usually placed parallel to the walls. They should never be placed diagonally across a corner. Sometimes a large piece may be placed at right angles to the wall to serve as a room divider. In fact, this can add variety so that every piece is not lined up flat against the wall.

However, the room must be large enough for the item to project into the room at right angles. A rule of thumb for extending a sofa into the room is that the room's width should be at least twice the sofa's length.

SMALLER furniture can be placed at angles to add variety, but avoid too many angles.

Also, consider balance when placing large objects. Avoid putting all heavy looking objects in the same area. An architectural feature such as a door, window, fireplace or built - in furniture may balance a large piece or group against the opposite wall. One large object on one side of a room can be balanced by several smaller objects on the opposite side.

The location of doors and traffic pattern through the room will also affect the arrangement. If there must be a main traffic flow through the living room, attempt to keep it to one end of the room. Avoid having the main flow of traffic through the main conversation grouping.

Madison Twp. Will Vote On 2 New Levies

Resolutions to place two new levies on the November ballot were adopted by the Madison Township trustees during a meeting Friday night at the township garage at West Point.

Township voters will be asked to approve a 1-mill levy for police protection and a 2-mill levy for current expenses.

Clarence R. Ammon, chief constable, reported that Sherman Rohr Jr. of Givens Rd. began work Tuesday as a deputy constable. A radio has been installed in his car. Township police can be reached by calling 385-2795 or the Columbiana County sheriff's office at 424-7255. Deputies will relay the call to the constables by radio.

During July township police patrolled 743 miles. Officers served two papers for county court, made two traffic arrests — one a drunk driver and the other no license — handled three fire calls, issued 15 traffic warnings and answered 20 complaints.

George Dunn, chairman, presided. Residents of Red Dog Rd. asked the trustees to clean out the ditching along their road. A request also was received to completely open Township Rd. 916. This will be investigated, the trustees said.

Bills totaling $6,964 were ordered paid.

Carl Adams, road supervisor, reported on work done the past two weeks. A discussion was held on a road program to provide blacktop for residents at a cost of $2.40 per front foot for an 18-foot roadway. The cost would be spread over a four-year period.

Woman Rushing To Assist Mower Goes Into Shock

LISBON — A highway mowing machine operator pinned under his tractor Friday morning escaped with bruises and abrasions.

A woman who fell running to his aid remains in Salem City Hospital for tests and observation.

Irvin McGee, 64, of 117 E. Spruce St., Lisbon, has only two abrasions between his right wrist and elbow to show where he was pinned by the tractor along County Road 419, east of Elkton.

Mrs. Fay Hillberry, 34, district vocalist and the mother of three children, went into shock a minute or so after she fell while running down an embankment toward the tractor.

Her mother, Mrs. Felix P. Butch, in front of whose home the accident occurred, said the fall did not render Mrs. Hillberry unconscious. Mrs. Butch said the patient complains of pain in the back of her head.

The Lisbon volunteer fire department ambulance took Mrs. Hillberry to the hospital. County Highway Department workers freed McGee and took him to Salem Central Clinic before the ambulance arrived. X-rays revealed no fractures.

McGee is still under treatment for pelvic injuries received in a highway mower upset last summer. He said yesterday's mishap was his worst experience with pain. "After the first five minutes the pain was awful; I yelled constantly until enough men arrived to lift the tractor off my arm."

Bond Forfeited

NEW CUMBERLAND — Mrs. Leah Fankhauser, 45, of Pittsburgh forfeited a $90 bond posted on charges of hazardous driving and not having an operator's license after failing to appear in Police Court here Friday. She was cited by Mike Macek, city patrolman, and Donald Dunlevy, constable.

Car Suit Asks For $100,000

LISBON — A Canfield man filed a $100,000 lawsuit Friday in Columbiana County Common Pleas Court for injuries received in a one-car crash two years ago today.

Robert A. MacGillis, 50, of 455 S. Hillside Dr., names three defendants — The Ford Motor Co., Cleveland; the Koch Motor Co., which has the Ford agency in Columbiana; and Anthony D. Bertone Jr., 18, of Mahoningtown, New Castle, Pa., who was driving a Ford-owned sports car when it overturned about 2:30 a.m. on Route 14, 1.4 miles east of the Route 7 intersection.

Bertone and his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Anthony D. Bertone Sr., are the defendants in a $225,000 suit filed here last week by Clem F. Pellarino of New Castle, whose son, John, 16, received fatal injuries in the accident.

MacGillis claims the Columbiana Kiwanis Club, the Ford Motor Co. and the Koch Motor Co. entered into an agreement Aug. 3, 1964. The Kiwanis Club was to "exhibit, advertise and promote" a new 1965 Mustang which was turned over to the club.

MacGillis says Dale S. Klingensmith of the Kiwanis Club had the Mustang at "The Ranch" restaurant on Route 14 the night of the accident. The plaintiff said he was "invited" to take a ride. Young Pellarino drove west to the Route 7 intersection, then Bertone took the wheel for the return to "The Ranch" and lost control on a curve, MacGillis said.

He charges the companies with negligence and Bertone with misconduct.

Youngstown Boy, 17, Is Drowning Victim

YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio (AP) — A 17-year-old Youngstown boy, William Overman, drowned Friday at Mary Jane's Camp north of New Springfield.

Overman was swimming with his brother David, 15, and another companion. David's efforts to throw a life-saving ring to his brother were unsuccessful. William would have been a senior at Woodrow Wilson High School this fall.

Charged With Murder

LANCASTER, Ohio (AP) — Buddy Lynd Whittington, 14, has been charged with second-degree murder in the death of Mrs. Herman Willard, 63, who a neighbor found strangled last week in the Whittington home.

Mary Meska, 52, of Allison, Pa., one of six hurt in the crash, remains in "critical" condition at East Liverpool City Hospital. Mrs. Mary Gara, the other driver involved in the mishap, has been released from the hospital.

Zarnich was cited by Hancock County sheriff's deputies.

Man And Girl Injured In District Accidents

An area man and a Lisbon district girl received injuries in two of five traffic mishaps investigated Friday by the Ohio Highway Patrol at Lisbon.

Floyd T. Angus, 53, of R.D. 1 was treated by his family physician after his car rammed a bridge and another auto on Route 154 just west of Rogers about 9 p.m.

Angus was headed east in a 1962 convertible when it struck the edge of the one-way bridge and a 1963 sedan operated by Dorothy Dearth, 36, of Fredericktown, who was headed west through the narrow span.

There was about $300 damage to the woman's car and about $900 to Angus' auto, officers said. Cheryl Lynn Andreatta, 18, of Lisbon R.D. 2 was shaken when her car went out of control while passing another on the Y & O Rd. around 4:40 p.m. and overturned, hitting a utility pole.

Officers said she was headed south and began to pass another car driven by Thomas Boston, 32, of 359 Jackson St. just as he began to move out to pass a third vehicle. When she saw the move, she pulled to one side, lost control and the car went off the roadway, rolling over into a pole. There was about $100 damage to her 1954 coach.

She was in "fair" condition today at City Hospital.

Robert Moss Melott, 21, of 1309 Erie St. was cited on two charges after his 1956 sedan collided with another on Route 170 at Calcutta at 6:10 p.m.

Officers said he pulled onto Route 170 into the path of a car operated by Juanita Fay Stoffel, 28, of 1716 Wyoming Ave., causing about $50 damage to both cars. He was charged with failure to halt for a stop sign and operating an unsafe vehicle.

Joseph Blaner, 42, of 182 Montana Ave., Chester, and William T. Seitz, 22, of 630 River Rd. escaped injury in a collision on the Y & O Rd., a third of a mile from Route 30 at 9:25 p.m.

The patrol said Blaner, headed east, pulled from an alley, turning south when his car collided with Seitz' car as the latter was passing another vehicle. There was about $75 damage to Blaner's 1961 coach and to the 1960 station wagon of Seitz.

Olaf Rankis, 18, of Lisbon R.D. 5 was cited for driving left of center after his 1965 sports car went off Cunningham Rd. north of Route 558 at 8:50 p.m.

Santo's Bat Leads Cubs Past Giants

By RON RAPOPORT
Associated Press Sports Writer

They're throwing at Ron Santo's head again, but his bat keeps getting in the way.

The Cub third baseman was out of the lineup for 10 days earlier this season with a fractured cheekbone, courtesy of an errant pitch by Jack Fisher of the Mets. Friday, Bob Bolin of the Giants took a couple of shots at him.

They didn't go any good, though. Santo hit two home runs and a two-run single in the 10th that gave Chicago a 4-3 victory.

Santo's first homer came off Bolin in the second inning and when Ron appeared at the plate again in the third he suddenly found himself studying the chalk around the batters' box close. Eventually, Bolin struck him out.

Happy with that result, Bolin tried it again when Santo led off the bottom of the ninth with San Francisco leading 2-1. But he climbed out of the dirt and hit his 25th homer of the season, sending the game into overtime.

In other National League games, Cincinnati beat Pittsburgh, 4-3. St. Louis beat New York 7-1. Atlanta crushed Philadelphia 9-2 and Los Angeles bounced Houston 12-1.

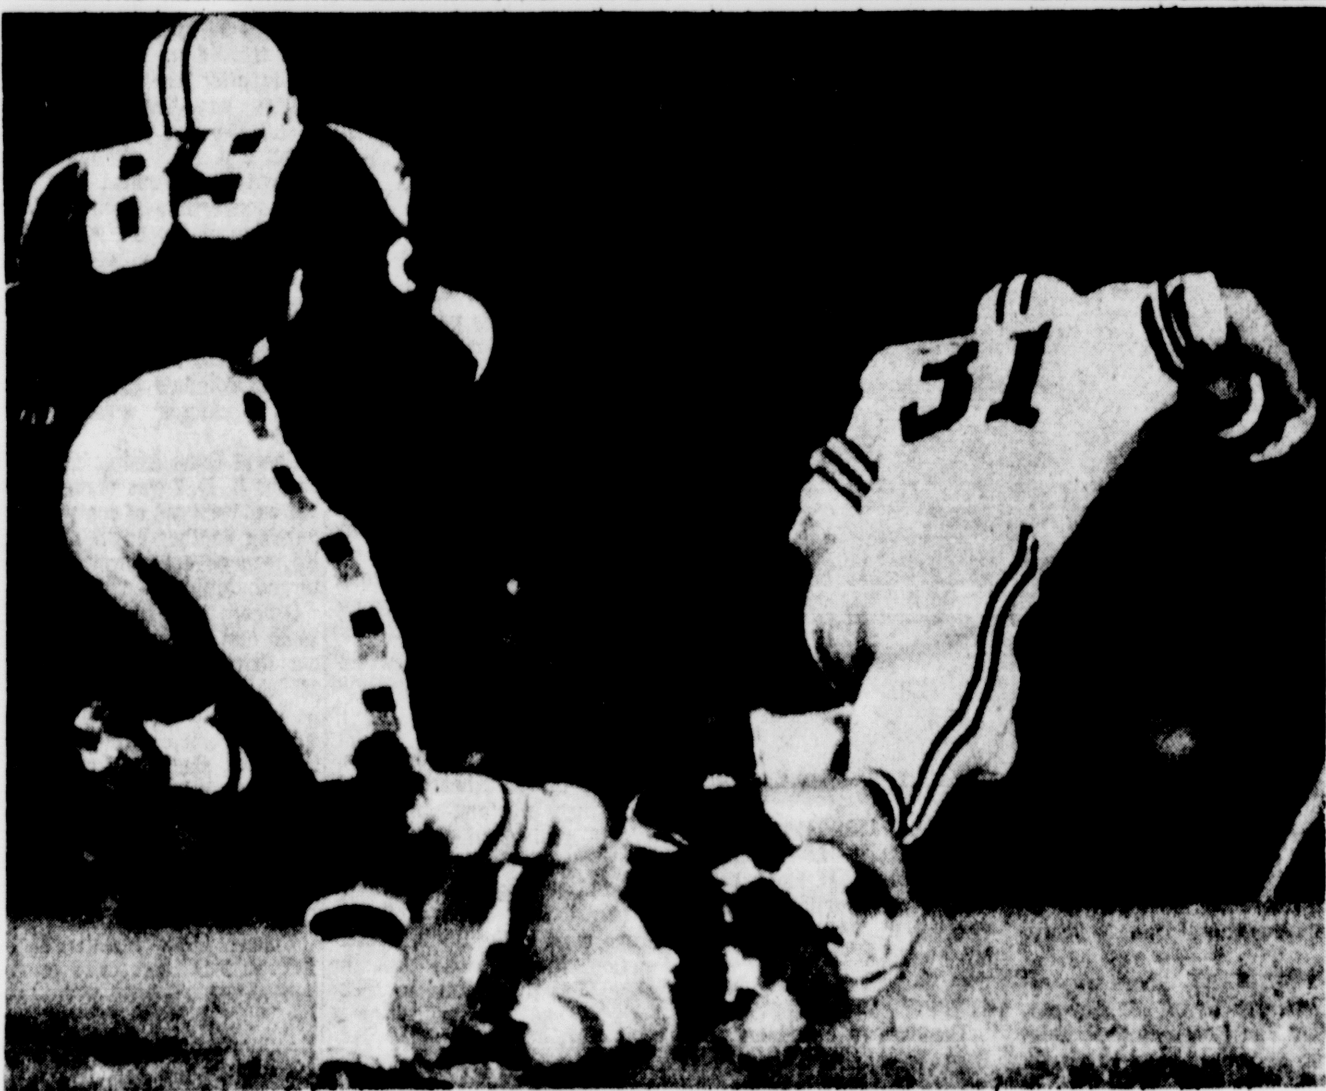

By the time Santo came up in the 10th, Bolin had given way to Frank Linzy but the Giants had gone ahead 3-2 on Tito Fuentes' homer in the top of the inning. The Cubs loaded the bases, though, and with one out Ron cracked the single that won it.

The Giants are now one percentage point behind the league-leading Pirates, who bowed to Gordy Coleman's tie-breaking home run in the sixth inning. The victory was the Reds' sixth in a row, 11th of their last 12 and 16th of their last 19.

The Cards clubbed three homers off the Mets, the most productive being Tim McCarver's three-run shot in the ninth. Julian Javier had one with a man on, and Tito Francona contributed a solo blast. Rookie southpaw Steve Carlton won his first major-league game, holding the Mets to six hits.

The Braves came up with five runs in the ninth inning in snapping the Phillies' winning streak at seven games. Joe Torre and Denis Menke hit homers in the ninth after the Phils had come from two runs back in the sixth. Torre's homer was his 27th of the season.

Sandy Koufax became the major leagues' first 18-game winner as Los Angeles jumped on Houston early and often. Koufax left the game after six innings, though the Dodgers were quick to say that nothing was wrong with him, they just didn't want him to over exert himself. Sandy struck out 10 Astros in those six innings.

GREEN BAY'S BRUISING fullback Jim Taylor (31) is finally brought down from behind by Roger Bird of the All-Stars during the first half of Friday night's game at Chicago. All-Stars Aaron Brown (89) runs up to put the finishing touch on the tackle. Taylor picked up 35 yards on the play. (UPI Telephoto)

Lombardi's Team Rolls

All-Stars Given 38-0 Lesson

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer

CHICAGO (AP)—"Revenge?" Vince Lombardi mulled the question, then said:

"I don't believe in the word. I can't remember as far back as 1963."

But everyone knows that elephants and Vince Lombardi never forget, and in 1963 the College All-Stars whipped Lombardi's Green Bay Packers 20-17.

So even Lombardi had to admit that "the boys were really up for this one" when they completely crushed the richest assemblage of All-Star talent in history 38-0 Friday before a crowd of 72,000.

The National Football League champions not only matched the biggest previous shutout in the 33-game series while amassing 388 yards on the ground and in the air but also throttled their own million-dollar babies. Donny Anderson and Jim Grabowski rolled relentlessly through the All-Star defense.

Taylor ripped off 75 yards in 15 carries and scored on runs of one and 13 yards. Hornung carried nine times for 44 yards and set up one touchdown before he had the wind knocked out of him and left. Starr completed 13 of 22 passes for 177 yards, hitting Boyd Dowler with a 10-yard touchdown pass and firing a 13-year scoring strike to Bill Anderson.

The other Green Bay touchdown was scored by Herb Adderley on a 34-yard run with an interception. Don Chandler kicked a 17-yard field goal.

The All-Stars, unable to penetrate past the Green Bay 45 in the first half while Steve Sloan of Alabama and Billy Anderson of Tulsa were handling the quarterbacking chores, had their biggest moment in the third quarter when Missouri quarterback Gary Lane raced 57 yards to the six.

The Packers, however, stiffened and took over with the ball on the 13.

Lane, the property of the NFL's Cleveland Browns; defensive back Nick Rassas of Notre Dame and Atlanta of the NFL, and defensive back Roger Bird of Kentucky and Oakland of the American League were among the All-Star standouts.

When Hannan started the second inning with a walk to Dave Johnson, Senators' Manager Gil Hodges brought in Humphreys.

The right-hander proceeded to retire 11 Orioles in a row.

In all, Humphreys allowed just two singles while striking out eight in seven innings.

A hustling Warren team, with two straight victories under its belt, was to square off with East Liverpool this afternoon at 2 with the winner gaining a spot in Sunday's finals.

Warren came from behind Friday to nip Rochester, N. Y., 4-3, while Kanawha Valley of Charleston was eliminated 4-2 by Mon-Yough in an earlier contest. East Liverpool had handed Kanawha its first loss Thursday.

The Warren-Rochester contest turned out to be a tight battle all the way with Warren breaking a 3-3 deadlock with a run in the seventh inning.

The clutch hitting of Earl Stringer, who drove in three of Warren's four runs, and the relief pitching of Fireman Keith Noble for the second straight day featured Warren's victory.

Noble was the winner in relief Thursday when Warren edged Mon-Yough 3-2 in extra innings. Yesterday, the right-hander appeared with one out in the sixth inning and a runner on second.

Noble went right to work and retired the last five men to face him to gain his second victory in as many days. He has now retired eight straight batters in his 2-3 innings of relief.

For the final out, Noble struck out Terry Cleveland, Rochester's big first baseman who came into the game hitting at almost a .540 clip.

Warren's starting pitcher Ken Ridenour gave up four hits in 5-1-3 innings but was a victim of some loose play especially in the fourth inning when Warren committed four errors but only one run scored.

Senators Upend Orioles, 4 To 2

By MURRAY CHASS
Associated Press Sports Writer

The Baltimore Orioles were wild about Jim Hannan, but they certainly don't want to miss Bob Humphreys again.

The Orioles jumped on Hannan for two runs on three walks, a wild pitch and a grounder in the first inning, then were stymied by Humphreys and his strikeout pitch for the next seven innings as they bowed to the Washington Senators 4-2 Friday night.

Hannan started the first by walking Luis Aparicio. He walked Russ Snyder before getting the first out, then loaded the bases by walking Brooks Robinson. Aparicio raced home on Hannan's wild pitch, and Snyder came across as Boog Powell grounded out.

When Hannan started the second inning with a walk to Dave Johnson, Senators' Manager Gil Hodges brought in Humphreys.

The right-hander proceeded to retire 11 Orioles in a row.

In all, Humphreys allowed just two singles while striking out eight in seven innings.

In other AL games, Detroit blanked Boston 2-0, Chicago defeated California 3-1, Cleveland edged New York 5-4 before bowing 3-0 and Kansas City trimmed Minnesota 4-2.

Detroit's Earl Wilson pitched a five-hitter for his first victory against his former Boston teammates. The Tigers backed him with two runs in the fifth inning, the first scoring on Don Wert's single and the second on Dick Tracewski's sacrifice.

Gary Peters also fired a five-hitter in Chicago's triumph over California. Tommie Agee and John Romano supported Peters with home runs.

The third five-hitter of the night went to New York's Steve Hamilton, who blanked Cleveland in the second game. Tom Tresh's three-run homer in the fifth won it for the Yankees.

The Indians took the opener as Leon Wagner drove in three runs with his 17th homer and a single. Clete Boyer homered for New York and knocked in a third run with a single.

Danny Cater paced Kansas City's victory over Minnesota. He singled and scored in the fourth, singled home a run in the fifth and singled across another in the seventh.

STRINGER, Warren's shortstop drove in two runs in the fifth inning then produced the game winning run in the seventh when he doubled down the leftfield line to send Terry Young home from second base.

After Warren had scored in the first inning on singles by Young and Wyman Newell, Rochester tied the game in the second frame.

Cleveland led off the inning with a line drive to rightfield, advanced to third on a single by Dan Geraci then scored on a ground ball.

THE NEW YORKERS were ahead in the fourth sending seven batters to the plate but only scoring one run when Warren committed four errors. Geraci scored the run.

In the fifth inning, singles by Larry Sanders and Newell set the stage for Stringer's two out single that netted two runs and put Warren in front 3-2.

Rochester, not to be denied, tied the contest in the sixth. After Bill Case walked, pitcher Steve Hromjak belted a long double against the fence in leftfield to score Case. It was at this point that Noble appeared on the scene to put out the fire.

NEWELL led Warren at the plate with a perfect three-for-three day while Young, Sanders and Stringer had two each.

In the afternoon game Friday, Mon-Yough of Pennsylvania broke the contest wide open in the fifth inning with three runs to drop Kanawha from the tourney.

Mon-Yough had scored one run in the second inning while Barkey, the winning pitcher, blanked Kanawha for five innings until the West Virginians scored twice in the sixth inning.

Kanawha was held to four hits while Mon-Yough collected seven off Chuck Sigman.

Barkey helped his own cause with two hits while Patterson came up with two safeties for the Pennsylvanians.

Sunday's game will begin at 2 p. m. and a second game, if necessary, will be played at 5:30.

Warren Golfer Captures Ohio Public Links Title

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) —Lalu Sabotin of Warren took home his second Ohio Public Golfers Invitational Championship trophy Friday after turning the tournament on its ear in the final round of play.

In three days of play, the 36-year-old fireman and former professional prize fighter carded 76-72-69—217 to regain the crown he held in 1963.

Sabotin's three - under - par 69 Friday was the best round played during the tournament on the 6,685 - yard Oakhurst Country Club course. He played it as the tourney's early leaders were falling by the wayside.

Al Hager, a Mansfield insurance agent, and Joe Lazor, the 1964 champion from Cleveland, had shared Thursday's lead with 145.

Hager dropped behind Sabotin on No. 14, a 190-yard water hole. He hit two tee shots in the water before reaching the green. But rather than play the third ball, he swatted his first ball, lying just into the lake near the green. He didn't get the ball out.

Tournament rules then allowed him to take the ball back across the lake in three after the swing. Firing onto the green in four, he took a double bogey five on the hole and never regained the lead.

Lazor, a personnel manager, lost his touch early Friday. He took a double bogey, three bogeys and a bird on the first nine alone, making the turn with a four-over-par 40. A 38 on the back nine left him tied for fifth, sharing 22nd with Bill Santor of Youngstown, and Bob Firestone of New Middletown.

Through these disasters emerged the steady Sabotin. "I played with a blade today," he said. "It was about time I got some of them in."

"It's easier than fightin'," he said. Sabotin was once a ranked heavyweight, but gave it up after being kayoed by Floyd Patterson 14 years ago.

Another steady golfer who survived Friday's pitfalls was Robert Black of Massillon, who placed second with 73-75-72—220.

Hager placed third with 73-72-76—221, followed by defending champion Don Nist Jr. of Akron with 74-73-75—222.

The tournament began Wednesday with a field of 240 which was halved Thursday night. The survivors played for 60 prize-winning positions in Friday's final 18 holes.

Steuenville Plays Grove City For Title

ATHENS, Ohio (AP)—Grove City was matched against Steuenville today in its try for a second straight Ohio American Legion baseball championship.

A victory for Grove City this morning would give the team from suburban Columbus the title and advance it to the national tournament. A Steuenville win would leave both teams with one loss in the double elimination tourney and force an afternoon rematch.

The only action Friday in the tournament was Steuenville's 6-5 decision over Lancaster. The losers fell short with a three-run ninth inning rally.

Steuenville scored all its runs in the fifth on six hits, one hit batsman and a Lancaster error. Winning pitcher Larry Leasure tripled in the big inning.

Clay Ranked 6-1 Favorite Over London

LONDON (AP) — World heavyweight champion Cassius Clay defends his title against brawling Brian London of Britain at Earl's Court indoor stadium tonight and the bookies reckon Clay should win by a mile.

At 6-1 against, London, a 32-year-old veteran with a face like a dentured dustbin, is being written off as a lost cause.

London arrived from his Blackpool training camp Friday night and confessed to being a bit nervous.

"Nervous—but great," he added.

Clay looked so relaxed that some observers felt there was a danger he might go to sleep on the stool.

The fight is Clay's second in London within 10 weeks. He stopped British heavyweight champion Henry Cooper on a badly cut eye in round six of their title encounter May 21.

Clay's manager, Angelo Dundee, predicted that the champion will end it somewhere between rounds seven and 11.

Clay himself, no longer the loud-mouthed campaigner but a bored, relaxed practitioner, declines to make his own forecast.

He made it clear, however, that he expects to win and be able to keep his next fight date with Germany's Karl Mildenberger at Frankfurt Sept. 10.

Clay will pick up $280,000 for that little outing.

Against London he is guaranteed $252,000 plus expenses and ancillary rights. London can hope for about $112,000.

The fight is being televised live in the United States via the Early Bird Satellite starting at 5 p. m., EDT.

Grabowski Calls All-Star Performance Embarrassing

By JOE MOOSHUL
Associated Press Sports Writer

CHICAGO (AP) — The Green Bay Packers contend they weren't out for revenge when they manhandled the College All-Stars 38-0 Friday, but their victory might prove to be a costly one.

Donny Anderson, the Texas Tech halfback who received $600,000 to sign with the Packers, was limping in the All-Star dressing room after the game.

Anderson, who started out as a flanker back suffered the injury the first time he carried the ball as a running back.

The Packers, who were defeated 20-17 by the All-Stars in 1963, were up for this game although Coach Vince Lombardi discounted any thoughts of revenge.

"Revenge? I don't believe in the word," said Lombardi. "I can't remember as far back as 1963, but the boys were really up for this one."

Fullback Jim Grabowski of Illinois, who got nearly $300,000 for signing with the Packers, called the All-Star performance a little embarrassing.

"I sure wish we had gone a little better than we did," said Grabowski. "It got a little embarrassing out there. But I'm sure glad I'm going to the Packers. They're a real good team."

Head Coach John Sauer of the All-Stars couldn't hide his disappointment, but he dismissed all notions that the Packers were trying to run up the score to avenge their 1963 loss.

"Vince isn't that kind of a guy, and I know he wouldn't do anything like that," Sauer said. "Green Bay is a good team, and they had all the psychology going for them. I can't cry about our loss. We knew we had weaknesses, and we tried to cover them up the best way we could."

Kinsey And Koos Wins Ladies Golf

Mrs. R. J. Kinsey and Mrs. J. M. Koos combined for 65 to win the best ball medal play in ladies golf at the country Club.

Mrs. Rick Crable and Mrs. W. T. Pomeroy Jr. finished second with 69. The putting went to Mrs. Gordon Weese with 30.

In the second division nine-hole play Mrs. Don Schreckengost and Mrs. Richard Hedderston fired 36 to win honors. The putting ended in a tie with Mrs. John Mountford and Mrs. Okey Ludwig having 16 each.

Sterling China Wins 5-2 Game

First place Sterling China handed Potters Bank a 4-2 setback Friday in the Wellsville Babe Ruth League.

Stephens and D'Angelo combined for a one-hitter as Stephens hurled four innings of no-hit ball. Kornbau led Sterling with four hits including one double. Ernie Carter was the losing pitcher.

Probe Proposed In Milk, Bread Price Increases

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The newest member of the Ohio Legislative Service Commission has recommended that the fact-finding body investigate recent milk and bread price increases in the state.

The proposal was made Friday by Sen. Anthony O. Calabrese, D-Cuyahoga, who has replaced Sen. Ray T. Miller Jr., D-Cuyahoga, on the commission. Calabrese said the commission should try to determine if the higher prices are justified.

Commission chairman Theodore Gray, the Senate Republican leader, took the proposal under consideration.

David Johnston of Columbus was elevated from acting commission director at the meeting. The director's post, which pays $15,500 a year, has been vacant since the death last year of Lauren A. Glosser.

In other action, the commission approved publication of studies on historical site preservation and management of state-owned land.

30-Day Centaur

VRNJACKA BANJA, Yugoslavia (AP)—Soviet sculptor Ernest Niezvesni carved a giant centaur out of an 18-ton block of marble in 30 working days. The centaur will be placed in a park in this spa city.

Coleman, plaintiff, filed his petition in the Court of Common Pleas of Columbiana County, and being duly notified, she appeared at a divorce from the said Sandra L. Coleman on the grounds of gross neglect of duty and extreme cruelty, and that said cause will be for hearing on or after the 29th day of August, A.D. 1966.

Attorney for Plaintiff

E. L. Review, July 16, 23, 30, August 6, 13, 20, 1966.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

IN MEMORIAM

Mr. Hallie Eagle, in loving memory of our dear son and brother, who passed away 2 years ago, August 5, 1964. You have left this world of sorrow and are free from pain and harm now rest in peace and comfort. In the blessed Saviors arms. — Sadly missed by Clarence Bailey and family.

CARD OF THANKS

WE wish to express our sincere thanks to those who gave comfort during the loss of our beloved husband, father and brother, William Earl Wilson with their sympathy and acts of kindness. We especially thank Rev. Summers, for his consoling words, those who sent the beautiful flowers, those who sent food, Dr. Brand, the nurses and nurses aides at City Hospital and the Arner Funeral Home. Wife and Children and Brothers and Sisters.

BIRD SONGS

QUESTION: Why do birds sing?

ANSWER: When you see a bird singing away with the enthusiasm of the little house wren in our picture, you might think he's singing just because he loves it. He probably does like to sing, but there are other reasons for that bright tinkling flood of melody. Inside that wren house is a Mrs. Wren, and soon there will be small wrens to care for. No doubt Father Wren's singing did help persuade Mrs. Wren that he'd make a good husband. But she probably thought of the practical side, too. She knew that when the family came, they would be extremely hungry. She didn't want other wrens getting the insects her family would need for food, and Father Wren felt exactly the same way. He had looked the general area over and had picked out a certain part for a hunting ground. He knew exactly what bushes, trees and paths marked out its limits. He is singing as loudly as he can so that other wrens will understand that they are to stay away from his particular territory. He's telling them to leave his special crop of food alone.

FOR YOU TO DO: Start now to build some bird houses for next year or feeding stations for the winter.

Today In History

By The Associated Press
Today is Saturday, Aug. 6, the 218 day of 1966. There are 147 days left in the year.
Today's highlight in history: On this date in 1945, a B29 flew over Hiroshima, Japan, and dropped a parachute carrying a bomb. It was the first use in war of an atomic bomb.
On this date:
In 1806, Francis the First, the last Holy Roman emperor, abdicated.
In 1825, the South American country of Bolivia declared its independence.
In 1926, Gertrude Ederle swam across the English Channel.
In 1937, the United States

signed a trade agreement with the Soviet Union.
In 1940, the Italians attacked British Somaliland in Africa.
Ten years ago — Egyptian President Nasser charged that an upcoming London meeting on the Suez Canal crisis proposed by the U.S., Britain and France would be, in his words, a conference of aggression.
Five years ago — The Soviet Union launched its second manned space craft, the Vostok 2.
One year ago — President Johnson signed the voting rights bill in Washington and ordered its immediate enforcement.

Egypt was the third country in the world to build a railroad—the Cairo-Alexandria line, completed more than a century ago.

Land Given For Playlots

In two civic-minded endeavors, the Belek St. Civic League and the First Christian Church turned over land to the city this week through the Park Commission to assist in the expansion of the playground program under supervision of the East Liverpool Recreation Council.

The Belek St. league has leased a plot to the city for the next 10 years for $1 per year and the church a plot for five years at $1 per year.

Taking part in the ceremonies were, top photo, seated, John Parsons of the Park Commission, Mrs. Florence Earley and Mrs. Ella Gibson, representing the civic league, and Louis Yanni of the commission. Standing are Joe

Teen-Agers Given Warning On The Risks Of Drinking

The dangers of teen-age drinking were reviewed today by Police Chief Americo Radeschi, who is cooperating in a drive against the problem with the Ohio Department of Liquor Control.

The chief said he is distributing leaflets and a card provided by the Liquor Control Board pointing out the evils of drinking by teen-agers.

He reminded it is against the law for any one under 18 to buy, sell, order, handle, pay for, attempt to buy, attempt to drink or share the cost of any beer, wine or liquor. The penalty is a $50 fine.

If you are under 21, it is against the law to buy, sell, order, handle, pay for, attempt to buy, attempt to drink, or share the cost of wine liquor or "high-powered" beer. The penalty is a $300 fine and six months in jail.

Hiroshima Cites Anniversary Of Atomic Explosion

HIROSHIMA, Japan (AP)—People are still dying from the after effects of an atomic bomb dropped on this city 21 years ago, the mayor said during solemn anniversary ceremonies today.

Sirens, church bells and temple gongs echoed through the reconstructed city at 8:15 a.m. as residents bowed their heads in one minute of silent prayer.

At that moment on Aug. 6, 1945 an American B29 Superfortress dropped a 20-kiloton atomic bomb — equal to 20,000 tons of TNT — from the summer sky.

It exploded 2,460 feet over the center of the city, killing between 80,000 and 200,000 persons. The Japanese believe the higher total. The Americans say the lower figure is more accurate.

As the sirens wailed today hundreds of pigeons were released from the city's Peace Park and some 30,000 citizens watched as Mayor Shinzo Hamai placed a new list of 550 additional bomb victims in the stone receptacle under the saddle-shaped concrete cenotaph.

The list included 482 who died under the blast, but whose identities became only recently known, and 68 who died during the past 12 months of what is known in Japan as "atomic diseases." The new list brings the number of confirmed, identified dead to 61,993 from the bomb and its effects.

Body Recovered

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The body of 43-year-old Mrs. Louise Bush, who drowned Thursday night in the Olentangy River here, was recovered Friday.

2 White Youths Are Wounded By Band Of Negroes

CHICAGO (AP)—A band of Negro teen-agers shot and wounded two white youths Friday night and sporadic gunfire was reported in several other areas of the far South Side.

Four youths were taken into custody for questioning.

One of the victims was wounded in the back, the other in the right arm. Both were hit by 22 caliber bullets.

The youths, James Arvia and Joseph Aliaro, both 17, said they were shot from a passing car as they stood in the parking lot of a hamburger stand on 103rd Street.

The gunfire was a continuation of random violence and bloodshed that has resulted in the deaths of two persons, and the wounding of at least 15 others in outbreaks on the South, West and Northwest sides since Thursday night. Some of the incidents have been traced to rivalry between youthful gangs, but others were unrelated.

Appeal Filed On Insurance

LISBON — The Federal Mutual Insurance Co. of Decatur, Ill., is appealing to Seventh District Court of Appeals from a jury verdict and subsequent judgment in Columbiana County Common Pleas Court.

The question before the jury last June 14 dealt with an insurance policy on a West Point home destroyed by fire.

Federal Mutual said the policy had been canceled months before the fire because of non-payment of premium. The plaintiffs, Kennedy & Beck, Lisbon legal firm, said it had the policy in its files, but never received cancellation notice from the firm or its local representative.

The jury verdict held that Kennedy & Beck was entitled to $3,242.18, plus interest. The judgment entered last month by Judge Joel H. Sharp was for $3,496.69 and costs.

Representing the estate of Ben Vocovich, Kennedy & Beck entered into a $5,000 land contract for the West Point home with the late Jack E. Gbur.

A condition was that he take out $5,000 fire and windstorm insurance with a "mortgagee clause" making any loss to the building payable to the legal firm.

The house burned March 15, 1965, taking the lives of Mr. and Mrs. Gbur and four children.

PLEASE PAY YOUR NEWSPAPERBOY EVERY FRIDAY OR SATURDAY

DON'T MAKE HIM CALL BACK SEVERAL TIMES

Your Newspaperboy is a "Little Merchant" and operates his business (newspaper route) in the following manner. He buys his merchandise (his newspapers) at a wholesale rate and sells them to his customers (that is you) at a retail rate, the difference is his profit and operating capital.

By paying your "Little Merchant" promptly each week, you will provide his profit from which he gets his spending money, buys his clothes and adds to his savings account. So, help this "young Businessman" by paying him the first time he calls to collect.

If you fail to pay your newspaperboy each week, he has to take the profit from several customers that have paid, to pay for your newspaper.

His account with the Newspaper is due every week

If you will not be home when he makes his regular collection, make arrangements with him to leave his money along with your collection card where he can find it, thus saving him a trip back.
